"KEEP POLITICS OUT OF SCHOOLS"

—Stratton D. Brooks

Pension System for Teachers and Vocational Training Urged by Educator Who Is to Go West

Keep politics out of the public schools.

Make vocational education a prominent feature of all education.

Pension teachers for the enrichment of the service.

In these three ways Boston public schools have done and will continue to do their best work, according to Superintendent of Schools Stratton D. Brooks, who has just resigned to become president of Oklahoma University.

"Politics must be kept away from the Boston public schools and their efficiency will be distinguished as long as this separation is maintained," said Superintendent Brooks. "Boston schools have been kept apart from any political influence and I am well assured in my own mind that such a separation has always had the endorsement of its best citizens."

Progress in West.

"We can see what progress such a movement as this has had in the West. Look at the Wisconsin University, where everything bearing upon the educational welfare of the State is referred to those who know what best concerns its interests. Politicians have no authority in that State, and I am told that the same condition exist in other States. Like Washington University, where, when they want a forester, they do not have to go seeking him among politicians, but go to the head of the university and the recommendation is made.

"Boston needs to be congratulated that the same separation between the public schools and politicians has been accomplished.

"Boston has succeeded well with its Continuation Schools. We want every boy and girl in the city to have some sort of an education. But schooling within the touch of everyone. Our methods may be open to some improvement, which will come about as soon as the system continues to advance.

The Pension System.

"The pensioning of teachers is another subject which has received consideration. This enables the administration to retire with pension teachers whose efficiency deserves such recognition. But there is a difference between pensioning a teacher and an employe of the street department. The teacher is worth more to the community than this street employe, because simply and solely of the responsible position she holds to the boys and girls of the community. The pensioning of trust officers is worthy of consideration. How to deal with a class of boys most difficult to manage and their place in the training and management of the youth is most important.

"The same is true of janitors, but I do not think that they can be put in the same class with teachers. Their duties are necessary, I say, but there is a difference here.

"While Boston schools have shown what are the future possibilities of education along new lines, I feel above everything else that education must be kept from and untrammeled, and the West offers splendid opportunities in this respect.

NIKISCH TO BRING GREAT ORCHESTRA

LONDON, March 23.—Arthur Nikisch will take his London Symphony orchestra to America, sailing on March 28. Thirty-one concerts will be given in a stay of twenty-one days. The orchestra comprises 100 men, and they will take along musical instruments, valued at $500,000. In order to avoid trouble with the New York customs authorities, a bond has been given to guarantee the instruments will be taken out of the country exactly as brought in. The orchestra's tour will extend as far West as Denver and as far North as Toronto and Montreal.

Reid Stirs Up Parliament

Inquiry on Strike Interview

WHITELAW REID

Ambassador Is Reported to Have Called Conditions Worse Than Before French Revolution.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The State department is reluctant to credit the authenticity of the interview credited to Ambassador Whitelaw Reid, wherein he was reported as saying in London that the strike situation in England was like that before the French Revolution. Officials here have assumed that the interview was not genuine, and it is understood at the State department that Mr. Reid repudiates it. Officially, the department has received no information on the subject.

Notwithstanding the explicit denial by Mr. Reid, it is reported that the matter will be aired in Parliament on Monday as a result of a question to be asked by a Liberal member.

Mr. Reid was quoted as saying:

"I have been trying to recall conditions in Paris as described in history just previous to the overthrow of the government, and as far as I can remember a similar state of apathy existed there. I think there is no doubt that conditions here are grave, and they are being made worse by the interlocking of the industrial and political situations."

International incidents of a grave nature have been brought about by diplomatic representatives sometimes breaking the strict rule that they must never, in any circumstances, take part in the internal politics of the country to which they are accredited.

International incidents of a grave nature here been brought about by diplomatic representatives sometimes breaking the strict rule that they must never, in any circumstances, take part in the internal politics of the country to which they are accredited. The most notable of such incidents in recent years was that which resulted in the recall, in 1888, of the late Bacon Sackville from Washington, where, as Sir Lionel Sackville-West, he was British Ambassador.

Congressman Wilder Marries Chaperone of His Daughters

Congressman William Henry Wilder of the Fourth Massachusetts District, and his bride, who was Miss Irene Pauli Ubel of New York, a Viennese girl whom he first met when he engaged her three years ago to chaperone his daughters while abroad, are now in New York, not exactly on their honeymoon, but enjoying the first few days of their married life seeing New York. A wedding trip to Europe is what Mr. and Mrs. Wilder are planning this Summer.

When seen at the Murray Hill Hotel, Congressman Wilder whose home is at Gardner, was seated on a lounge reading a newspaper. His bride was beside him and seized a few feet away sat Miss Marion Louise Wilder, his daughter. Near her was her brother, Solon. Mr. Wilder has three daughters and two sons by his first marriage. His wife died two years ago.

"You see," he said, "I met Miss Ubel when seeking a chaperone for my three daughters, and engaged her to go to Europe with them. I had heard Miss Ubel highly spoken of, and I went with them on the trip. I did not see Miss Ubel again until after my first wife's death. Then, when on my way through New York to Washington, I remembered once to stop off and thank her for her kindness. And, do you know, that led to our marriage."

Appeal of Reason, Socialist Organ, Is to Suspend

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 23.—The Appeal to Reason, the Socialist paper published at Girard, Kan., and biggest political paper in the world, is to suspend. "It is too hard work, the task of keeping it going." These were the words of its editor, Fred D. Warren, explaining why he will let the giant die. "This is my last fight," Warren continued. "The present contract with the Federal Court and the Postoffice Department over the Leavenworth prison scandal is the swan song of the 'Little old Appeal.'"

The McNamara confession was a blow to the Appeal. The real founder of the paper is J. A. Wayland, formerly a poor country editor. He was publishing the Appeal in Kansas City and moved to Girard, Kan., and soon made that town a first-class postoffice to take care of the great volume of postal business created.

Warren, his partner, took his profits and bought cheap and in a few years after discovered oil. The editor, who was once a penniless printer, now built and owned a whole town. He could sell all lots at prices. Now he scarcely knows his own wealth.

J. A. Wayland invested his profits in land in Texas. The City of Amarillo grew upon his holdings and today Wayland receives as rental in Amarillo alone the sum of $40,000 a year.

MINORITY WOOL BILL IS TO BE DEBATED

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Chairman Underwood of the House Ways and Means Committee and Representative Hill of Connecticut have agreed to permit full debate on the substitute wool measure drawn by the minority of the House Ways and Means Committee and the Payne forces. During the consideration of the Steel schedule and the sugar bill, the Republicans complained that the Democrats were unduly limiting debate on the Republican amendments. It is said that under the new arrangement the debate on the wool bill will continue for at least ten days. The measure probably will be called before the House next Thursday.

FEAR MAINE SHIP AND CREW LOST

Boston Underwriters Abandon Hope for Three-Masted James B. Jordan.

The three-masted schooner James B. Jordan, Capt. George L. Holden, hailing from Jonesport, Me., is thought by the Boston insurance underwriters to have been lost with the six members of her crew somewhere between the Virginia coast and Surinam, Dutch Guiana. She was due to have reached the latter port six weeks ago with 1,000 tons of coal.

The Boston underwriters feel so sure that the schooner was lost that they announced their willingness to pay the policies of insurance, the amount of which is not made public.

The members of the crew thought to have gone down with her were:

Captain George L. Holden, Deer Isle, Me.
Mate William Coombs, Stonington, Me.
Cook Timothy C. Veno, Mahone Bay, N. S.

Three seamen not yet identified.

The schooner James B. Jordan was worth $12,000. The largest owner was O. B. Paulsington of Jonesport and some shares were held by Boston interests. She sailed from Philadelphia December 5, with a full cargo of coal for Surinam, Dutch Guiana. Rough water forced her to take shelter at Hampton Roads where she was rammed by a freight car barge in tow of a tug. She was towed to Norfolk and repairs were completed January 3 when she resumed her journey.

NEW REAL ESTATE MEASURE IS SIGNED

Governor Foss has signed the bill presented on the petition of W. T. A. Fitzgerald, Register of Deeds, to authorize conveyances of real estate directly between husband and wife. This act changes the law which has existed since the establishment of the Massachusetts Colony, and was based on the legal fiction that husband and wife were considered as one in the eyes of the law. Therefore a person could not be considered as contracting with himself. Under this system if a husband wished to transfer property to his wife, it was necessary to make a deed to a third person, who was known as a "conduit," and this third person would then immediately sign a deed back to the wife.

POLITICIAN SLAIN; RICH MAN HELD

NEW YORK, March 23.—Henry Lavelle, a Democratic politician, died today in Fordham Hospital of wounds received in the hallway of the residence of B. J. Jackson, No. 1,229 Simpson street, last night. Lavelle had been shot and beaten. Jackson, a wealthy real estate operator worth $300,000, is under arrest. He admitted having a fight with Lavelle, whom sister Jackson has employed as housekeeper and governess. Jackson said he found the intruder in the hallway of his home last night. Lavelle, he said, was in an ugly mood, and a quarrel ensued. Although detectives found a revolver in the house, Jackson insisted that he did not remember using it.

Carnegie's Venus Embarrassed Scotch Verdict Only for Beauty

MISS VIRGINIA LEE, CARNEGIE'S "PRETTIEST GIRL"

Girl, Suddenly Made Famous, Dodges Photographers and Proposals.

PITTSBURG, March 23.—"Bonnie Virginia Lee, the Prettiest Girl in the World," Andrew Carnegie wrote on the photograph of the young Pittsburg stenographer to whom he has drawn the attention of most of her compatriots.

Little Miss Lee, with her chestnut hair, blue eyes and graceful figure, may not be a "raving beauty," but "bonnie" she is surely. Here is the Scotch type of pulchritude; "a bonnie lassie" she would be in Edinburgh or Glasgow; gallants would throng around her at any Caledonian ball on this side of the water.

So it is not strange that the contour of her face great resembles that of a certain philanthropist who arrived in this country with a few shillings in his pocket and who possesses a few hundred million dollars now. You could not walk a block along a street in Dunfermline without meeting a girl whose face is shaped like Miss Lee's; Fifeshire is full of faces of this shape.

In a word, the Laird of Skibo sees a face of this shape every time he ties his cravat, every time he shaves, if he shaves himself.

Whether or not Miss Virginia is the prettiest girl in the world, Mr. Carnegie owns her some pounds. For his admiration of her, sincere as it is, has been too, too public.

Miss Virginia's father, T. B. Lee, an engineer, met Mr. Carnegie at Hot Springs, Ark. Mr. Lee thanked Mr. Carnegie for the opportunities for an education Miss Virginia had found at the Margaret Morrison Technical Schools here—named after Mr. Carnegie's mother. The ironmaster asked for Miss Virginia's photograph, and then remarked to a reporter:

"If I were not married I would board the first train for Pittsburg."

Up to that moment Miss Virginia had been going quietly about her business, which is toiling shorthand notes and transcribing them in the office of the Loughridge Engineering Company, in the Oliver Building here.

ROOSEVELT GARDED BECAUSE OF THREATS

Cheered by Throngs on Way to Speak in Portland—Shakes Hands with Many, Raps "Weak" Men

Yes, I have received threatening letters. And I want to add that I don't care a cent about them. They don't bother me. I don't think I'd better tell you where they came from, though.

—Colonel Roosevelt, commenting on anonymous letters responsible for heavy guard during his few minutes' stop in Boston.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt rushed through Boston on a visit of twenty-six minutes today, caught the 8:55 a. m. train out of the North Station and journeyed to Portland, Me., shaking hands with crowds of followers at Lawrence, Haverhill and Dover, N. H., and thence went to South Portland, where he made his first speech this afternoon. He speaks at Portland tonight and goes direct back to Oyster Bay.

Colonel Roosevelt arrived at Portland at just 12:30 p. m. More than 3,000 people were awaiting him. At the station he was greeted by Colonel Fred Hale, son of former Senator Eugene Hale, who is regarded as the leader of the progressive Roosevelt movement in Maine.

As Colonel Roosevelt entered the automobile, he smiled and said: "Well, Maine surely isn't frigid."

The size of the crowd that greeted him with cheers in Boston and along the route pleased the ex-President, but he paid no attention to the ferry policemen sent to guard him at the North and South stations as the result of threatening letters he had received before he started from New York. But what Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver told him did not please. Said the judge, who accompanied his friend, the Colonel, out of Boston with Medill McCormick and other bosmers:

May Hurry Out West.

"Colonel, come out West and make some speeches and stem that La Follette tide."

The Colonel said he would think it over and maybe go out West a little later.

At Exeter students of Phillips Exeter cheered Roosevelt. "You make me think the football season has opened," said the Colonel. "Shake hands."

The Colonel shook hands with 300 people.

"Let those young ladies come up," said the Colonel, as he spied a bevy of girls in the background. "New Hampshire ought to be proud of its pretty girls."

At Durham students of the Agricultural College cheered Roosevelt's brief stop and handshaking.

Speaks at Dover Depot.

"I am glad to come to New Hampshire because what I preach, you are practising under Governor Bass," said the former President at Dover. "The right government is but the exercise of courage, honesty and common sense. The progressive spirit is at the bottom of good government. The social and industrial development of our country rests today with those of us who believe in progress. It is for you to decide whether we shall have this progress or whether we shall stand still.

"You have a chance to say whether the people shall rule by men you choose who are able to govern and make a mistake now and then, because they do things, or whether by weak and ex-progressive men you allow government by the boss. It is up to you to make the decision. The man who is governed by some one else is a poor creature.

"I want the people to rule themselves and know that they are ruling. The man who represents them and who needs to be pushed forward is unfit to rule. New Hampshire to the leader in the Northeast in our movement for progress and the whole country looks to you to keep the standard high."

Roosevelt was met by Mayor Dwight Hall at Dover and spoke from an automobile in Depot Square.

Crowds at North Berwick and Biddeford shook hands with Roosevelt during brief stops.

Shakes 200 in Two Minutes.

At the Haverhill station a crowd of shoemen and factory employes gathered. The Colonel shook hands with 200 in two minutes.

On account of threatening letters received by the Colonel before he left New York Matthew Hale, president of the Massachusetts Roosevelt Club, requested three police precautions.

The police responded with a guard of

COAKLEY ACTS FROM CORRIDOR

Lawyer Timothy W. Coakley, who was barred from the Suffolk County court room by Judge Chase, where the attorney had been appearing as counsel for Dr. John Dr. Ferguson and Miss Mary J. O'Neil of Manchester, who are charged with being accessories in the death of Marie A. Bolduc, the Manchester mill girl, acted as advisory counsel from the corridor. He came to the court house, but did not enter the court room where the case was being tried. The government rested its case just before noon.

Dr. Ferguson was called to the stand to finish the testimony. He denied that he ever charged Chief Cassidy of the Manchester police department with being intoxicated on the day that he was arrested, but he did testify that Miss O'Neil, who was arrested at the same time, claimed that the police head was "mulled."

Dr. James E. Prior of No. 30 Hancock street, Boston, said when cross-examined by Assistant District Attorney Levelle that he advised Dr. Ferguson to seek legal advice before reporting the death of the Bolduc girl to the authorities and that he told Dr. Ferguson to see Lawyer Edward Barry, who acted for Ferguson and Miss O'Neil in the first trial. The prosecuting attorney arraigned Dr. Prior for not advising Ferguson to tell the Boston police.

Big men are big men no matter when you run across them. Soon after Peary returned from the North Pole he lectured under my auspices, for which I paid him $1,000. Peary took the $1,000 just as if it were only $1.50, chucked it in his pocket and commenced talking about something else. The cash made a big roll, but he did not stop to count it, or examine the bills to see if they were genuine. Neither did Peary offer to give a receipt, and I never asked him for anything of the sort. He lectured, I paid him, and the incident was closed.

One Benefit

By MORTON BIRGE.

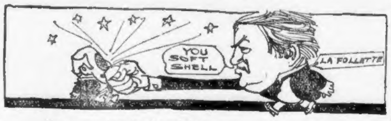

Since they started to sing of that ornery "Houn'"
A lot of new talk has been kickin' aroun',
No matter who wins in this blessed campaign,
The speech of the people is slated to gain.

A fortnight or so the "Houn' Dawg" was the thing.
Then Teddy came through with "My hat's in the ring,"
And that held the stage till we happened to get
The "Cow vote" rejoinder of "Bob" La Follette.

Then Taft, in a talk on political ways,
Got "Soap-box" and "Primaries" into one phrase;
And now comes the latest, the snappiest yet—
The "Soft-shell Progressive" of Friend La Follette.

No matter who wins the political muss,
The issues are making some phrases for us.
We may not see much in the parties to choose,
However, we're getting new language to use.

FREE HARBOR LANDING URGED

Further development of the harbor front by a free public landing at the Northern avenue bridge is sought in a resolution sent to the Harbor Commissioners by the Building Trades Department of the Boston Central Labor Union today, as adopted at their meeting last night.

The labor men held that a free public landing at this point would aid in developing the harbor. It is also thought other semi-public civic bodies will take similar action. The matter eventually would have to be approved by the War Department.

In addition to taking up the plan of harbor front development, the building trades men held their Spring election, with the following result: James T. Moriarty, president; Ignatius McNulty, vice-president; John C. McDonald, secretary; Humphrey Sullivan, assistant secretary; M. J. Young, treasurer; Arthur M. Huddell, financial secretary-agent.

MEXICANS CHEER RELATIVE OF DIAZ AND HISS MADERO

MEXICO CITY, March 23.—In the Chamber of Deputies today President Madero's name was hissed and that of Felix Diaz, a relative of the former dictator, Porfirio Diaz, was cheered lustily. Despite the apparent hostility to Madero, Guillermo Obregon, the government candidate, was elected president of the body. It is reported Generals Orozco and Zapata, the former heading the Vaquista insurrectos and the latter commanding his own supporters, will unite for an attack on this city. Announcement was made from the national palace that Manuel Calero, Minister of Foreign Affairs, will resign to become Mexican Ambassador to the United States.

HEAR TILDEN IN LOMBARD TRIAL

Captain Calvin S. Tilden, who preferred the charges against Colonel Walter E. Lombard of the Coast Artillery Corps, took the stand today at the trial of the colonel before the examining board in the staffroom of the judge-advocate general at the State House.

He was on the stand some length of time and told in detail of what the accused officer is alleged to have done. As the hearing was secret, nothing of the exact testimony given is known.

Though the dismissal of all but one of the twenty-seven original charges came as a surprise, men in close touch with military affairs said today that they do not place significance on this because, they point out, if the general charges now preferred are substantiated and a court-martial ordered, many of the original charges may be taken up again. The special board, they say, in that case would be merely the preliminary step in case of a court-martial.

The hearing before the special military examining board went on today.

Two probable courses, it is understood, lay before the board. These are, if the charges are not substantiated, to dismiss the case, and, if they are substantiated, to recommend to the colonel that he resign or recommend a court-martial.

Today Captain Calvin S. Tilden, who prefers the charges and Lieutenant-Colonel George F. Quimby were heard. The other witnesses summoned are: Attorney-General James M. Swift, Major Harry M. Hartung, Captain Frederick M. Whiting, Captain Frederic L. Woods, Captain Olin D. Dickerman, Captain Russel P. Reeder, Captain Conrad L. Gerlach, Captain Horace W. Allen, Lieutenant Renred, U. S. A.; Lieutenant Frank A. Young, Lieutenant Harry M. Bugg, Lieutenant Arthur A. Chase, Lieutenant Arthur W. Huguley, Lieutenant Whipple F. Smith, Charles P. Nutter, Malden; Frank C. Brownell, Warren C. BIG RUSH FOR NEW SUBWAY

Amid the cheers of many passengers, including a large number of Harvard students, the first public train to run through the new Cambridge subway left the Harvard station at 5:24 a. m. today, carrying 286 people.

Long before the doors of the Harvard station were opened, people were waiting outside. Some of them arrived there at 3 o'clock, anxious to be the first person to buy a ticket. When Station Master Morgan opened the doors at 5:20 a. m., it required the efforts of three police officers to hold the crowd back and prevent injury to many women.

When they were admitted, all made a rush towards the ticket sellers' booths. Young men and boys forgot their manners in the excitement and women were pushed right and left, but none of them was injured.

The first passenger to buy a ticket was Dr. William Dwyer of Pearl street, Cambridge, who had waited outside for more than an hour and a half. The first woman to buy a ticket was Mrs. Mary E. Collette of No. 11 Revere street, Cambridge. She said that she retired early last evening and got up at 3 o'clock today. She was waiting at the doors for nearly two hours.

The first train was run into the station four minutes before the scheduled starting time. It was in charge of Motorman William M. Miles; Guard Thomas O'Dea and Brakeman Edmund F. Noonan.

Officials Make Trip.

The smoking compartment of the forward car was reserved for the company's officials, who were to make the first trip. This party included M. C. Brush, second vice-president; H. P. Pasho, superintendent of the elevated division; G. H. Benjamin, train master; H. M. Stewart, chief engineer of the maintenance of ways department; A. L. Butler, road master; F. E. Wyman, train despatcher; W. S. Smith, signal inspector; District Supervisor Walker; Paul Windsor, chief engineer of the motor department; Leslie Lockman, assistant road master; D. D. Hall, chief clerk; John Harrington, superintendent of Division 7, and Paul Hanson, the twelve-year-old son of District Supervisor Hanson.

Master Hanson was the first boy to make the trip through the subway, having gone through with a party of railroad officials last week.

During the first four minutes of the opening rush 286 tickets were sold. Along the route twenty more passengers were taken on, making a total of 306 passengers when the train arrived at Park Street.

Superintendent Pasho gave the signal to Motorman Miles to start the train. As the motorman applied the power and the train slowly pulled out of the station many Harvard students who were on the train started to cheer. Other passengers followed suit. This cheering lasted for fully a minute.

Made Quick Trip.

When the train left Central square station more cheering was started. Everybody seemed to be enthused over the opening of this tube, through which one may travel to Boston, a distance of three and a half miles, in eight minutes.

At Kendall station more passengers were taken on and the last lap of the first trip was started. The train pulled into the Park Street station at 5.31 a. m., making the trip in less than eight minutes. The majority of the passengers carried over made the trip more through curiosity than necessity. They could not return on the return trip, because they were obliged to go up on the street and in again, to get on the outward bound platform.

At the Park Street station about a score of passengers were waiting to ride on the first trip from Boston. Daniel J. Hunter of No. 32 Grant street, Cambridge, bought the first ticket on the Boston side.

The cars used in the new underground passage are of the latest type. They are constructed entirely from steel, with the exception of the window frames. Each car has three side doors and will seat seventy-two passengers. There is a smoking compartment in each. The floors, made from a composition of asbestos and cement, are fireproof.

Each of the stations is constructed entirely from concrete. The platforms are raised to prevent accidents during the rush hours. Passengers are allowed transfer privileges at the Kendall and Central stations.

On the surface cars the trip to the Park street subway consumes between twenty-five and thirty minutes, and sometimes much longer during the rush hours. All the congestion which has marked the trip in the past will be relieved by this new underground system.

DEATH REVEALS MAN WAS TWICE MARRIED

Mrs. Caroline L. Jovell of Winthrop, made the startling statement that she was married to Willard Henri Jovell for thirteen years without knowing that he had been married before, had been divorced and had a grown-up daughter living in this State, in a bill in equity filed by her in the Supreme Judicial Court. She asks for a court ruling that property purchased by her and standing in her husband's name be placed on record as her property entirely. She married Jovell in 1897. After he died in 1910 she learned of his former marriage. She also found that he was known by the name of William H., and Willard H. Burchmore. Her object in filing the bill is to get a decree from the Supreme Court that her stepdaughter, Mrs. Pearl B. Green, of Belchertown, is not a party in interest in her husband's estate.

TECHNOLOGY TAKES LEGAL POSSESSION OF NEW CAMBRIDGE SITE

Tech took legal possession of its new Cambridge site today when fifty deeds, conveying 2,300,000 square feet of land on the Charles river esplanade to Massachusetts Institute of Technology were passed in Middlesex registry at East Cambridge. The deeds were filed by a string of attorneys, representing the estates conveying the land.

The conveyances were to the M. I. T. corporation. This is the first time Tech has had full title to the land comprising its new building site. The land lies along the river front, just north of Massachusetts avenue and about opposite Riverbank court.

In the meantime, folks are still wondering who gave the $2,500,000.

WEAVERS GO OUT AT CHELMSFORD

A strike of night weavers at the Silesia Worsted Mills in North Chelmsford has thrown the entire night side of the plant out of work. The plant employs 1,000 hands, with 100 of these working nights. Eighty of the night force are weavers. They demanded 10 per cent. increase in wages. Agent Mark Hingham offered 5 per cent. The night weavers voted to go out. They struck by failing to report for work last night. The absence of the weavers threw out the twenty other night hands. The day side is not affected yet.

Agent Hingham says:

The Silesia Company offered the night operatives an increase of five per cent., which is as much as can be offered consistent with operating the plant. The company employs 1,000 hands and the latter have had steady work, night and day, throughout the long period of depression which has shut down textile plants throughout the country.

MASSACRE IS THREATENED AT SWATOW, CHINA

SWATOW, China, March 23.—A general massacre is threatened here by army mutineers and outlaws. Thousands are fleeing, and troops are being rushed from Canton.

Stragglers from a detachment of local soldiers, who were sent north to Chao-Chow-Fu to give battle to an approaching horde of brigands, returned today saying that the loyal troops had been defeated with great slaughter. Business here is completely paralyzed.

An increasing number of minor disturbances is reported from various districts in the southern provinces, but the officials of the Republican government continue to assert that there is absolutely no reason for uneasiness.

Premier Tang Shao Yi today conferred with leading Chinese merchants and officials at Shanghai and it is believed in well informed quarters that he is endeavoring to arrange a purely domestic loan of 100,000,000 taels (approximately $70,000,000). The premier says that the delay in making the final arrangements for a loan from the foreign financial syndicates is fatal to the success of a foreign loan.

HOTEL VISIT IN BLODGET SUIT

WORCESTER, March 23.—A visit to a hotel in the Back Bay district of Boston by representatives of a detective agency is said to be the basis of the $50,000 suit for alleged alienation of his wife's affections begun by Charles G. Grundstrom of Brockton, against ex-Mayor Walter H. Blodget of this city. Mr. Grundstrom claims to have been aware of a friendship existing between Mr. Blodget and his wife several months, and detectives in his employ, who have shadowed her every time she went from her home, are alleged to have found her in company with Mr. Blodget in the hotel.

Mr. Grundstrom is a member of the housefurnishing firm of Grundstrom & Lawrence, No. 957 Main street, Brockton. Mr. and Mrs. Grundstrom have been in Brockton about seven years. Mrs. Grundstrom, who was Agnes Engdahl, was married to Mr. Grundstrom twenty-one years ago. They have two children, a girl eighteen years old, and a boy, fifteen years old.

Dispatches from Brockton said Mrs. Grundstrom left that city bound for Worcester, intending to go to the home of her father, August F Engdahl, No. 9 Whipple street. At Mr. Engdahl's home it was said Mrs. Grundstrom was not there.

Ex-Mayor Blodget is one of the foremost business men of this city and has been prominent for many years in both the commercial and political life of the city.

DEWEY BOARD ASKS FOR FOUR WARSHIPS, BIGGEST EVER BUILT

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Recommendations of the general characteristics of the largest and most powerful battleships yet projected by any naval power have been made to the Secretary of the Navy by the general board, of which Admiral Dewey is president. The general board advises the construction of four ships, embodying these features: Displacement, 31,000 tons; speed, 21 knots; main batteries, 12 14-inch guns in four turrets, each containing three guns. Whether Congress will authorize the construction of any new battleships at this session is uncertain, but if they are authorized Secretary Meyer desires that they embody these features. The cost of such a vessel would be $12,000,000 each.

ESTHER QUINN TO RENEW SUIT

NEW YORK, March 23.—Harry Thurston Peck expressed satisfaction to-day that the suit of Esther Quinn against him for $100,000 for breach of promise to marry has been dismissed. It was brought two years ago and attracted wide attention. Lawyers for the plaintiff made public a number of letters and poems alleged to have been written by Professor Peck to Miss Quinn, a stenographer who once lived in Boston.

The dismissal was granted on motion of counsel for Peck, but the court gave permission for renewal of the pleading within five days. Miss Quinn's attorney said that he would make a charge suggested by the court and file a new complaint.

Partly on account of this suit Peck was ousted from the Anthon Chair of Latin, which he had held at Columbia University for many years. Peck gave out a statement at the office of his attorney, D. Francis, as follows:

"I have steadfastly contended that this woman never had just cause for complaint against me. Much has happened to me since the suit was brought. I was asked to resign my professorship, but I have continued my literary work and have an offer to join the faculty of another university, which I may accept when my present work is completed.

"My wife was annoyed by the publicity given this suit but has remained with me in the fight and is as happy over the outcome as am I."

Here's Mary Garden's 'Ripple' Gown

An Artistic Decollete Sensation

MARY GARDEN IN HER "RIPPLE" GOWN SHOWING FRONT AND BACK

Like a Tunic, Draped From Shoulder, Caught at Waist Line and Let Fall.

Of all the unique, artistic and stunning, yes, even sensational, creations worn by Mary Garden, none has attracted more admiring and at the same time inquiring attention than her "ripple" gown.

"What is it?" "What style?" "Looks like a curtain," "No gown at all," are a few of the remarks that have been made in reference to it. It is like a tunic, made of beautiful heavy white lace over white satin, caught and shirred just below the waist line, where it pauses in its fall floorward, drops into more graceful folds and proceeds on its way still rippling and falling in some more graceful folds about the feet.

It might possibly be called the "curtain" gown, draped from the shoulder just caught up at the waist line and then let fall some more. At any rate, it's a rippling, ripple of a sensation. Everybody tries to name it and each name it differently, but Mary proudly asserts that it's one of her own ideas. That accounts for its originality—possibly its daring.

The underdress is of white satin, closely fitting the figure, somewhat after the style of the princess frock. It is decidedly decollete. The overdress of white lace falls free from the shoulders to the waist line and billows and ripples on from there to the floor.

It really looks but very little like a gown. Style? It's so lacking in that particular point that it is rather a sensation, and still we look and still the wonder grows.

But it's Mary's idea, and so it must be wonderful.

LAMPBLACK IN CANDY PEANUTS

WORCESTER, March 23.—Worcester confectioners and dispensers of soft drinks are selling Easter chicks made up with furniture glue, candied peanuts containing lampblack and soda flavored with coal tar dyes, according to analyses made by chemists and food experts at the Pure Food Exposition in Mechanics' Hall.

The exposition is one of pure food and domestic science. It is conducted by the Worcester Woman's Club and the Retail Grocers and Provision Dealers' Association jointly.

With the sanction of the officials of the exposition, a committee of food experts secured a quantity of goods from Front street stores and subjected them to analysis. The "raiding committee," as it was called, consists of Professor Lewis B. Allyn, chemist of the State Normal School at Westfield; Alfred W. McCann of New York, an authority on pure foods, and T. Benedict Furniss.

They brought to the hall many souvenirs, including candied peanuts and Easter confectionery novelties, such as chickens, lambs, and so forth, not to mention a sufficient quantity of non-intoxicating drinks, for analysis at the laboratory of the State Normal School, which is regarded as the most important part of the exposition.

In all of the goods they analyzed they found impurities banned by the law. For instance, there was the Easter chick, very tempting in appearance. Mr. McCann had this analyzed, and it showed that there was a large amount of furniture glue in its composition. In the words of Mr. McCann, there was enough glue to fasten two sticks together and hold them tightly.

"The men who get away with the adulterants of this nature should be put in jail," declared Mr. McCann.

The raiders selected the goods at random from stores in Front street.

In the candied peanuts they discovered not only lampblack for coloring them, but shellac as well and in substantial qualities.

In the soft drinks the analysis proved the suspected presence of coal tar dye, this being particularly evident in orangeade, and which, it is maintained, depresses the heart. The fact that such flavors as strawberry, peach, raspberry and banana exist at the soda water fountains of Worcester indicates readily to the trained chemists of the food expositions that they are unhealthful, inasmuch as it is impossible to create such flavors from the fruits, and in order to produce what is offered as a substitute ethers are employed and ether is injurious.

MISS GERARD JILTS THOMAS

MONTE CARLO, March 23.—Edward R. Thomas, the former banker in New York, has already been thrown over by Theodora Gerard, the actress, whom Mrs. Linda Lee Thomas names as co-respondent in her divorce suit.

Miss Gerard, now in Paris, is receiving devoted attentions from Fred Cripps, a well-known young Englishman. It is reported that she will marry Cripps when she is free to do so, that is after she or her husband has obtained a divorce. Her husband is now in New York.

Thomas, who is at the Hotel Metropole here, makes no secret of his opinion that the actress treated him very shamefully, his friends say. They add that Thomas and Miss Gerard parted in London after Cripps appeared on the scene.

Thomas was in a jealous fury for a while and Miss Gerard was so fearful that he would take some sort of revenge on her that she asked Scotland Yard for detectives to protect her.

From London Miss Gerard and Thomas went to Paris, traveling separately, and on different days. But they met in the Paris cafes several times. Wherever he saw her, rage so possessed him that a disgraceful scene, if not a tragedy, was averted only by the diplomatic interference of mutual friends.

Mr. Thomas was at the races with his mother, Mrs. Samuel Thomas, who, with Miss Gertrude Bland, is staying at the Hotel Royal, Nice. An American correspondent approached them. Thomas, who was standing near his mother, was talking to Kid McCoy, the New York prize fighter and sporting man.

"Mr. Thomas," the correspondent began:

"My name's not Thomas," interrupted the former banker, brusquely. "My name's Leders."

High Cost of Living Now Invades Radcliffe

So Many Girls Spend Only a Nickel for Lunch the Others Have to Stand Increase.

Radcliffe lunch room prices have gone up! And Radcliffe girls now unite in a protest against the high cost of living.

Miss Hill, the manager of the lunch room, recently issued a statement to the effect that owing to the increased cost of food and the small number of persons who purchase large lunches in the Radcliffe lunch room, the prices would be raised. Out of 200 students who get their lunches in this place each day, about one-third pay only five cents.

The girl students who pay more than this amount are indignant over the increase in prices, claiming that they are made to suffer for a few people. At present they pay about thirty cents for a moderately robust meal, and they resent any higher charge.

BIG POLICE GUARD HERE FOR ROOSEVELT

fifty men. There were ten patrolmen, in charge of a sergeant, at the South Station.

At the North Station Sergeants McDevitt and Murphy had a detail of forty men.

In addition there was a special personal escort for the Colonel at the North Station, consisting of Patrolman Gavin and Connolly.

From the time he arrived at the South Station from New York at 8:30 to the time he left the North Station for Portland at 8:56 the candidate was fully guarded. The trip betwen stations was made in Mr. Hale's big limousine, which darted from one terminal to the other in jig time.

Breakdown Delays Train.

Three thousand admirers cheered when Colonel Roosevelt arrived at the South Station and was greeted by Mr. Hale, Medill McCormick of Chicago and other personal friends. It had been planned to take the candidate to Mr. Hale's house in Charles River square for breakfast. But the train on which the Colonel traveled from New York was ninety minutes late, the result of a breakdown at Saybrook. The boiler flues of the locomotive sprang a leak, causing a loss of steam. A change of engines was necessary. The breakfast hour at Mr. Hale's was eliminated. Instead orders were sent to have breakfast ready for Colonel Roosevelt and Mr. Baldwin of the Outlook Magazine, to which Colonel Roosevelt is a contributing editor.

Medill McCormick gave out the following statement to the reporters:

"After conferring for several days with the Roosevelt leaders from New Hampshire, Maine and Massachusetts, I am convinced that the sentiment of Republicans in the three States is as overwhelmingly in favor of the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt as it is in the rest of the country. The gentlemen with whom I have talked have studied the situation carefully, have taken large and careful polls of the voters, and have traveled over the three States.

"The passage of the presidential preference primary law in Massachusetts in the face of the opposition of the whole Crane-Taft machine, is indicative of the feeling in the State. The pressure of opinion was too great even for the resisting power of the regular organization.

"If the Bourbon newspapers of Boston misrepresent voters in New England as consistently and outrageously as they misrepresent the situation in the rest of the country, what they say may be wholly disregarded.

"No man intending to interpret facts and able to do so intelligently, could represent the North Dakota primary other than as a crushing and humiliating defeat for the President. It shows that his strength in that part of the country is nil, and is a warning to Republicans elsewhere who wish to elect a Republican President, to recover control of the House and to retain a Republican majority in the Senate.

Fight Is Only Begun.

"It is not conceivable that the voters of New England will be deceived any more by the campaign of misrepresentation which is being conducted against Colonel Roosevelt than are other voters in the middle Western States.

"The campaign for Colonel Roosevelt's nomination has hardly begun, but with its beginning it has become evident that the progressive spirit and opinion of the voters of the north are going to carry the day, and that obstructive and evasive tactics and the activity of federal office holders are the only resources left to those discredited party leaders who prefer to control machines than to win victories in elections."

Mr. Hale's limousine made a quick trip across the city to the North Station, where elaborate precautions had been taken to prevent any disturbance.

Forty patrolmen, under Sergeants Murphy and McDevitt of Hanover street station were placed in a double line from the carriage shed, across the platform, through the gates and to the rear end of track 13, where the 8:55 express for Portland was waiting.

In addition there was the double personal escort for Colonel Rosevelt in the form of Patrolmen Gavin and Connolly, to walk alongside the candidate from auto to train.

A crowd estimated from 1,500 to 2,000 people hailed the Colonel when he arrived. Some of them had been waiting for him. Others were regular commuters who, arriving at the North Station about this time in the morning, saw the police line and the throng and waited with natural interest.

Shouts for Teddy."

When the limousine drew up at the curb of the carriage shed Mr. Hale stepped out, followed by Colonel Roosevelt and Medill McCormick. The three men walked briskly through the police lane, with Gavin and Connolly, the police escort, stepping beside him.

The moment the colonel's face showed from the limousine someone raised a cheer. The crowd kept up a fairly steady cheering, not riotous, but reasonably enthusiastic. There were good-natured shouts of "Hurrah for Teddy."

The colonel flashed his Rooseveltian smile, waved his hat and kept striding along with Messrs. Hale and McCormick to his train.

They went to the first Pullman on the train, not a private car. Seat reservations had ben made for the party.

Colonel Roosevelt, Mr. McCormick, Mr. Baldwin of the Outlook and Judge Ben B. Lindsay of the Children's Court at Denver, who was en route to Lawrence, went aboard, too.

Matthew Hale, Senator Arthur Nason of Haverhill, ex-Senator Dan. Lane of Boston, Councillor Earnest Smith, Raymond Oveson and other Roosevelt men who had come down to one station or another to welcome the Colonel, said goodbye.

Off for Portland.

The crowd of spectators, held in check by the long line of police, gave a final cheer as the colonel entered the Pullman. Then those who remained till the train pulled out saw the colonel and Mr. Baldwin sit down face-to-face at a little movable table on which a hot breakfast was speedily served by an attentive colored brother in the Pullman employ.

The colonel arrived at the North Station at 8:47, and it didn't take him much more than a minute to get from auto to car. So there was seven or eight minutes before the train started, while the colonel and Mr. Baldwin could be seen chatting, smiling and eating at the little table in the car. Spectators raised cheers now and then and, when the cheering became extra loud, the coolnel would cock a smiling eye out toward the platform and wave a hand, if he happened to have a hand not busy in breakfasting. The train left at 8:56.

At South Lawrence railroad station Colonel Roosevelt shook hands with one hundred railroad men who crowded around the platform of the car. He made a two-minute speech, saying he regretted he could not stop over in "this great textile centre."

Some one called for cheers for "Our Next President." The crowd cheered. The colonel was pleased with his Lawrence reception. He was also greatly pleased with his receptions in the North and South stations in Boston.

The extra police details were stationed because of a request made by Manager Matthew Hale. He stated that threatening letters had been received, and the Colonel himself, before leaving New York, corroborated the statement.

"However, they don't bother me a bit," said Roosevelt. "People can write as much as they like. I don't care a cent. I don't think I'd better tell you just where they came from, though."

It is understood, however, that the letters were mailed in Boston.

A delegation of Manchester and Dover Republicans will board the train at Dover, N. H., and have a few minutes with the ex-President during the twenty minutes stop there.

Two Portland Speeches.

Colonel Roosevelt will make two speeches in Portland. He will speak at South Portland this afternoon, and at Portland tonight, and return at once to New York.

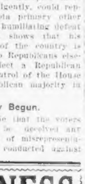

Arriving in Portland Colonel Roosevelt will be driven from the Union Station to the Falmouth Hotel for lunch. There will be a reception in the State of Maine room and an opportunity will be given to the general public, and especially to the supporters of the Colonel to meet him. He will then probably attend a conference of the Roosevelt leaders, and will be taken to the Auditorium just before 8 o'clock.

DEAFNESS

HOW TO OVERCOME IT

Good News for Those Afflicted. Success by Natural Treatment After Doctors and Hospitals Fail.

There is an eminent New York physician who has had over 32 years of experience and who does not hesitate to assert that he has remarkably successful home treatment for deafness and head noises, such as buzzing, ringing, etc., in the ears.

This successful specialist is Dr. Coutant, a diplomated, certificated and registered physician, who has served the U. S. Government as a medical official and who has held other high positions. This noted physician makes some very straightforward and remarkable statements, all of which he announces he is ready to absolutely prove to those who desire to know the truth.

Dr. Coutant states that the only true method of conquering deafness completely is by removing the causes of it.

In nine cases out of ten, the Doctor claims, the cause is an inflammation of membranes of the ear or passages thereto.

He asserts that the dominating cause of deafness is one that can, in most cases, be reached by means akin to those provided by nature, applied externally. He is opposed to the old system of drugging; he proves that vibration, ketalizing and other applications are by far the most successful.

WHY PEOPLE REMAIN DEAF

Dr. Coutant explains how people try one doctor, hospital or remedy after another, yet are never cured of their deafness. Most ear specialists resort to powerful drugs, electric batteries, alcoholic tonics, use of surgical instruments and catheters. Dr. Coutant says: "Let me treat a dozen, or a thousand deaf persons in their own homes; they need never come near my office nor see me. They need never swallow a teaspoonful of medicine nor submit to any surgical operation. I am confident that double as many of these deaf persons will regain their hearing by my method as if they were being treated in specialists' offices or in hospitals."

Dr. Coutant has written a treatise. It is a most interesting book, giving a great amount of valuable information. Many have said it is worth its weight in gold. As a special gift to our readers the Doctor has decided to give a copy of his new treatise free to every one who applies.

HE WILL GIVE IT FREE

There will be no charge whatever for this valuable work on the subject of deafness, head noises, their causes and how to cure them at home in the quietude of one's room, speedily, safely and lastingly.

To obtain this book free it is only necessary to write to Dr. George E. Coutant, 27 J, Station E, New York, N. Y. This treatise will be sent in plain wrapper, postpaid, free of cost. Those who are deaf (or becoming so), as well as those who are interested in others thus afflicted, should take this opportunity, as it may not be given again. We know the Doctor to be an honorable, reliable deafness expert, whose greatest pleasure in life is in enabling deaf people to regain perfect hearing. A letter addressed to him asking for his treatise will bring it promptly, and he will cheerfully give his opinion free upon any case.

Allens Dicker for Terms of Surrender

Bandit Edwards Caught, Half Starved

MOONSHINE STILLS SEIZED ON ALLEN ESTATE; TWO MEMBERS OF ALLEN FAMILY

The picture at the top shows the whiskey stills found at the home of Floyd Allen by United States revenue deputies. The lower picture shows Mrs. Floyd Allen and her daughter. Floyd Allen is the man who started the shooting in the Carroll County Court.

Outlaws Ready to Give Up and Plead Guilty of Murder in Second Degree.

THE BANDITS' TERMS:

1—That in event of their surrender they must be guaranteed every protection under the law.

2—The surrender to be made on condition that the trials will not be held in Carroll county.

3—That they will be permitted to plead guilty to second degree murder.

THE ANSWER:

An unconditional refusal.

HILLSVILLE, Va., March 23.—Sidna Edwards, nephew of Sidna and Floyd Allen, has been captured and the rest of the Allens are dickering for terms if they surrender.

Sidna Edwards, twenty-two, standing six feet and weighing 185 pounds, and his brother Wesley were responsible for the trouble that led to the sentencing of Floyd Allen and the shooting up of the court. The brothers had attempted to oust their uncle, the Rev. Garland Allen, from his pulpit. A deputy sheriff arrested them. Floyd Allen beat the sheriff and released the boys. It was for this he was sentenced by Judge Massie to one year's imprisonment.

Sidna Edwards has been handicapped in his flight by a sore foot. As he walked slowly down a mountain path at daybreak near Lambsburg, Va., eighteen miles south of here, he did not know his every movement was watched by two detectives.

As he approached a thicket the two stepped forward with their rifles pointed.

A search proved he had no revolver, so the detectives, W. W. Phaup and Lee Felts of Roanoke, lowered their rifles and asked the young mountaineer to go along with them. They walked him to where they were able to get horses, and after a three-hour ride got him here. He is in the Carrol County jail, which adjoins the court house. The reward offered for his arrest at first was only $300, but it was raised to $1,000. The indictment charges murder.

On the way here the detectives and their prisoner were joined by the latter's uncle Jasper, known as "Jack" Allen.

Half the village's population of 400 stood waiting for the little party. They came in on a slow gallop. There were no handcuffs on Sidna Edwards. He had his reins in one hand and had the other stuck casually in his coat pocket. The detectives had left their rifles behind them, but the butts of revolvers protrude handily from their holsters and ammunition belts encircled their waists.

Young Edwards will be taken to Roanoke and lodged in the big jail there, where his uncle, Floyd (whose sentencing caused the shooting) and his cousins, Vic Allen and Byrd Marion, are prisoners.

Edwards was found half starved in a hut a mile from his home. He made no resistance. He had become exhausted by his wanderings in the woods.

Young Edwards, in his cell, refused to say anything about the whereabouts of the clan. There are still at liberty his brother Wesley, his cousins Friel, and Claude Allen and his uncle, old Sidna Allen, who was wounded in the courthouse battle.

HELD IN BOSTON "SLAVE" CASE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 23—Investigation was started here today by the authorities to learn the facts concerning the alleged unlawful detention at a house in Congress avenue here, of Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson, who testified in Waterbury yesterday that she was brought here from Boston, and later taken to Waterbury by Albert Diana.

Diana and Guiseppe Russo, proprietor of a Waterbury restaurant, where the woman was found, were held in $2,000 each for the Superior Court on the charge of white slavery, brought under the Connecticut law. The attention of the government may be called to the case.

The woman says she came to Boston from Vermont where she was married when sixteen years old. Following her husband's death five years ago she worked in Boston and roomed at a boarding house at No. 617 Tremont street. While there she says she met Diana in a restaurant and he induced her to come to New Haven on promise of securing her a position. She says he forcibly detained her in a house here and under threats of killing her compelled her to go to Waterbury.

"If Single and Getting $20, Adopt a Baby"

ST. LOUIS, March 23.—"Every unmarried man or woman should adopt one baby for each $20 of their weekly income," Dr. Lindsey Wynekoop of Chicago, told the National Congress of Mothers.

"Taking care of a child is not a burden," continued Dr. Wynekoop, as she explained to the delegates that although she had three of her own, she had adopted a girl. "It does more to build up the character of a man than anything else. It makes him responsible for a human being and it probably will save a life.

"The death rate of babies placed in institutions is higher than of the babies placed in private homes. One out of two babies placed in institutions dies and we must stop this waste."

MILLION MADE BY ROOSEVELT

HOW ROOSEVELT MADE $1,250,000 IN FIFTEEN YEARS

Assistant Secretary of Navy two years—$16,000.

Governor of New York two years—$20,000.

Vice-President of United States one year—$8,000.

President of United States seven years—$350,000.

*Awarded Nobel Peace Prize—$40,000.

From Scribner's Magazine—$35,000.

Royalty on "African Game Trails"—$634,000.

Lectures, three years—$9,000.

Fifteen years' earnings—$1,112,000, to which should be added salary on "Outlook" and magazine articles and back royalties on books, unknown, but probably making the total $1,250,000.

*Gave it to promotion of industrial peace.

NEW YORK, March 23.—As holder of political offices, literary free lance, peace prize winner, not counting back book royalties and his salary as "contributing editor," Theodore Roosevelt has made in fifteen years almost $1,250,000.

No "best seller" ever reached so enormous a figure. Recently one of the most successful authors confessed that, at an outlay of $300 in paper and pencils, he had made in the eleven years $255,000. Colonel Roosevelt beats that "to a frazzle."

Up to date his receipts for writing of his hunts have yielded about $634,000. His proofs were corrected while touring European cities. This is not reckoned in a literary man's actual work; so Colonel Roosevelt besides having "a bully time" and a vacation, earned at the rate of nearly $57,636 a month.

It was learned yesterday that the printer of his book of African adventures was ordered to print 1,000,000 copies.

"Not all of these have yet been disposed of," it was said at Charles Scribners Sons, "probably not more than 900,000."

What terms had been made with Roosevelt was not to be disclosed. But for ordinary authors the royalty is 10 per cent, and for "best sellers" 15 per cent. and upward.

One edition DeLuxe of 1,000 sold at $20 each.

One trade edition of 1,000 sold at $4. One "Elkhorn" edition of 1,250 sold at from $2.50 to $7.50. One subscription edition of 1,000,000 of which 900,000 have been sold was priced at from $3.75 to $6.75 a volume, according to binding.

Nothing in the subscription book business, it was decided, had approached this sale, "except sales of the Bible."

The last sensational money maker was the "Memoirs of General Grant." Previous to that record was held by Stanley's "Darkest Africa" and Blaine's "Twenty Years in Congress."

The distribution of 900,000 copies of a subscription book in so short a period (Roosevelt returned to America in June, 1910), is regarded by publishers as a marvel of generalship in conducting canvass.

Practically every country in every State in the United States has its rank and file of canvassers under local commanders.

These men have been paid above $1,125,000, for they receive 25 per cent. on their sales whether of the $3.75 book or the $20 book. Some, who made their own deliveries received 40 per cent.

Colonel Roosevelt's pleasure jaunt, therefore, put into circulation $4,500,000 to $5,000,000 of money and caused the printing of 450 tons of paper. If the volumes sold were placed end to end he could walk over an uninterrupted pathway of them from here to New Orleans for they would reach 1,379 miles. The distance to New Orleans is only 1,365 miles, as the mail is carried.

FRENCH PUSHES SHOE MACHINE

United States District Attorney Asa P. French took the first steps today to carry the United Shoe Machinery Company case to the United States Supreme Court.

He filed in the United States District Court a bill of exceptions to the recent opinion handed down by Judge Putnam of that court by which the government lost four out of the five counts in its prosecution of officials of the United Shoe Machinery Company.

If the bill of exceptions filed by Mr. French today is allowed then the case will go to the United States Supreme Court at Washington for consideration.

Mr. French treats only three of the four counts which the government lost by Judge Putnam's opinion.

In these three counts the defendants were charged with conspiracy in restraint of trade and with combination in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

In his bill Mr. French says that the government is aggrieved by the decision of Judge Putnam in regard to these three counts.

The United Shoe Machinery Company officials under prosecution include President Sidney W. Winslow and Directors E. P. Hurd, E. P. Howe, George W. Brown and William Barbour. They were charged in five counts, included in two indictments, with violation of the Sherman law and with conspiracy. After demurrers had been filed and argued, Judge Putnam handed down his opinion sustaining the demurrers to four out of the five counts. He threw out all the conspiracy counts. The only count left to the government related to alleged monopoly through system of machinery leases.

Mr. French now seeks to have three out of the four rejected counts restored through his bill of exceptions.

NATION BURIES MAINE HEROES

WASHINGTON, March 23.—With all the pomp and solemnity that a mighty nation can give its heroes of war, the last of the dead of the Maine were laid away today beneath the green hills of Virginia, in Arlington Cemetery. Side by side with the bodies of those brought back from Havana harbor soon after the war with Spain, they were consigned to the earth of the Old Dominion, while a nation paid its last measure of honor to the "unidentified" of the great catastrophe, which brought on a war, changed the map of the world, and extended the empire of the United States to the corners of the earth.

Seldom in the history of this country has there been planned a higher tribute to the memory of any man or men than that for the sixty-four dead of the Maine. Government business in Washington was practically suspended, by executive order.

President Takes Part.

President Taft, most of the members of his Cabinet, the highest officers of the army, the navy and the marine corps, officials of the departments and the representatives of many of the foreign powers participated in the exercises. Over the government buildings flags hung at half staff while Congress adjourned at midday. The booming of minute guns and the tramp of soldiery added the touch of military pomp and circumstance.

Elaborate and careful preparations had been made for the ceremonies of the burial. Beginning with the removal of the dead from the U. S. S. Birmingham and ending with the firing of three volleys of musketry over the new-made graves across the Potomac, the exercises were designed to show all honor and respect to the martyrs of the doomed battleship.

The escort for the slow march through the streets of the Capital from the Birmingham to the State, War and Navy Building was picked from the Birmingham and other vessels now in Washington. The speakers who faced the crowd in the plaza, behind the Navy Building, were only three—President Taft, Fr. Chidwick, chaplain of the Maine when the explosion o. February 15, 1898, sent her to the bottom, and Chaplain Bayard, U. S. N.

Dirge by Marine Band.

The Marine Band was chosen to give the solemn music for the dead, and an Army battery stationed near the Washington Monument was selected to fire the twenty-one guns as the ceremonies at the Navy Building ended and the quiet march to Arlington was begun.

Conspicuous among the officials for whom reservations had been made just behind President Taft on the steps of the big granite building were Rear Admiral Charles D. Sigsbee, retired, who as a captain commanded the Maine at the time of the explosion; Rear Admiral Richard Wainwright, Lieutenant Boyd and Medical Director L. G. Heneberger, officers under him at the time.

For Admiral Dewey and Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles, retired, the ranking surviving officers of the navy and the army who served in that war, special places had been set apart.

SEEKS WAY TO HASTEN TRIALS

Judge Wait of the Suffolk Superior Court is seeking some way in this county to expedite trials. He called several trial lawyers to court today and asked for suggestinos to help in clearing the docket.

While conditions have improved in the last year, the court is still dissatisfied, for it still requires from a year to sixteen months to reach a case.

The most practical suggestion offered today, was that tort cases be not marked for trial for at least six months, when a person is suing for injuries, so as to awai tthe outcome of the courts. Since the October sitting this year 3,934 cases out of 4,340 have ben called for trial. Almost 600 cases have ben settled. This is about 100 per cent more than in any other year.

NEW CAST IN "HABANERA"

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

"Habanera," a three-act opera by Laparra, was sung for the first time this season at the opera last night. Maria Gay, Jean Riddez and Fernand De Potter assumed the principal roles.

This opera was sung here last season for the first time in America. It did not cause any sensation and only the conviction of Director Russell and Conductor Caplet that it was handicapped by a poor cast saved it from going into the discard.

Last night it turned up, after being pruned and revised by Caplet, with an entirely new cast of principals, and right now let us admit that it received a vastly superior performance to that of last year.

Laparra is a young Parisian composer of the realistic school whose ambition seems to be to operaize horror. "Habanera" is the story of two brothers who loved one girl. One brother slew his rival. The dead man haunted the murderer and his ghostly hand dragged the girl Pilar down to death to avoid the embraces of his slayer.

which occurs while village merrymakers are dancing the Habanera. Here is much good music, and the joyous themes from the street are cleverly contrasted with the grim drama in the chamber. The discovery of the murder and the incidents therewith are set to gripping, powerful music. The scene is in Spain.

The second act is the patio or courtyard of Ramon's house. Here comes the ghost of Pedro in the wake of three blind fiddlers who play the Habanera. The melody strikes terror to the murderer's heart and the ghost warns him to confess his crime.

The last scene is a churchyard where Pedro is lying buried, and where Pilar falls dead on his tomb.

It is a short opera and one naturally compares it to Pagliacci and Cavalleria Rusticana, two gory and furious tragedies. It must be admitted that it falls below both in sustained interest, in dramatic construction, in beauty of music, and yet it has an atmosphere of its own—a wierd, awesome, gloomy atmosphere peculiarly created by strange music.

If you are at all impressionable it will send shivers creeping up and down your spine and perhaps give you the nightmare. Laparra tried to write a horrible, ghastly, grisly opera and he succeeded.

The second act with its gloomy courtyard and tragic figures, its ghost with greenish glowing face, its shadowy people who dance a mournful Habanera, and its haunted murderer, these things happen to music that is as grewsome as themselves.

In its way it is artistic; it is certainly interesting when it is done as it was performed last night.

Mother-in-Law Plans to Sue Dr. Heims Divorce Case in Hands of the Court

MRS. H. F. HEIMS (at left) AND MOTHER, SKETCHED IN COURT BY AMERICAN ARTIST

Mrs. Homer L. Wright, formerly of Logan, O., mother-in-law of Dr. Henry Francis Heims, at one time dentist to the court of King Emmanuel of Italy, is planning to enter suit against her son-in-law to recover damages for being compelled to board and shelter her daughter and provide her with money after her separation.

It appears the cross-libel divorce case, decision in which has been reserved by Judge Quinn, is only the first step in a complex domestic litigation.

The mother-in-law often mentioned in testimony at the airing of troubles between Dr. Heims and his wife, doesn't propose to suffer financial loss on account of the dentist if she can help it. Hence the threatened suit for board and lodging and other incidentals.

Hint of Suit for Damages.

The suit for damages was hinted at by counsel for Dr. Heims in the course of his cross-examination of Mrs. Heims, when he asked:

"Didn't you know that an action had been planned against your husband?"

But before the wife could answer, the question had been excluded as irrelevant.

Both sides are now waiting for the court's decree, which is likely to be handed down any day. Attorneys George F. Perkins and George E. Curry, counsel for Dr. Heims, intend to enter another divorce libel should the court rule against their client on the first which charged Mrs. Heims with intoxication and infidelity.

Although the allegations of misconduct were set forth clearly in the original bill, counsel for the dentist did not offer evidence on that score. The reason is explained by Mr Curry, who says that under a new divorce requirement, which had been overlooked, it is necessary first to notify the person involved. This had not been done in the case of the young Italian nobleman whose named figured at times in the proceedings.

Counsel for Dr. Heims proceeded therefore on the intoxication charge and waived for the time being the other, with the understanding that, should the court rule against them, they might bring a new divorce proceeding.

Mrs. Heims and her attorney hope she may be granted a decree on the strength of her cross-libel charging cruel and abusive treatment and non-support.

AUTO MEN WAR ON CAR ROBBERS

By J. C. KERRISON.

There seems to be a perfect epidemic of automobile thefts, for in the past ten days something like five automobiles have been stolen off the streets, in broad daylight, and apparently within sight of the general public. As a result the automobile men are up in arms and are particularly desirous that the police take as much interest in capturing the offenders as some of them seemingly take in arresting drivers whose machines are smoking a little more than the average, or who fail to blow their warning horns at every cross street.

It would seem as though there was an organized crowd now operating in Boston for the larceny of machines that may be left unattended for a few moments, and it is to be hoped that the police will make strenuous efforts to discover and break up this crowd, if such exists.

* * *

Alfred Reeves of the United States Motor Company is now in Miami, Fla., where there is a considerable colony of automobile men. Walter E. Flanders and John North Willys are likewise in the Southlands.

* * *

T. A. Earl, well and prominently known in the local automobile world, has become connected with the Studebaker Corporation of Boylston street, where he is assisting Mr. Phelps in the handling of the Flanders and E. M. F.

* * *

The Whitney-Barney Company of Boylston street, has recently taken on the New England agency for the Chadwick 6, which is a car with a reputation of ability.

CORNELL MEN MAT CHAMPIONS

NEW YORK, March 23.—Winning all of the bouts in which they entered, the Cornell wrestling team captured the highest honors in the finals of the Intercollegiate wrestling meet held in the Columbia University Gymnasium.

The Ithacans, under the new system of scoring, were first with 23 points, Princeton second with 16 points, Pennsylvania third with 13, and Columbia fourth with 9 points.

Two of last year's title holders, Captain A. L. Ormond of Princeton, in the 158-pound class, and Captain A. W. Caruthers of Columbia, in the 135-pound class, lost their places.

J. H. Franz of Princeton was the only one of last year's champions to hold his title against the challengers.

Captain A. L. Ormond lost to R. D. Shaw of Cornell on decision for work done, while Caruthers was thrown by H. H. Ormond of Princeton after a 24-minute contest of practically four extra periods.

1912 Season Best In Tennis History

NEW YORK, March 23.—Lawn tennis promises to have one of its best seasons this year, according to members of the executive committee of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association, which met here to arrange the annual schedule of contests the country over. Applications for dates, especially from the West, show a large increase from last year, and many new clubs have applied for membership.

The numerous conflicts in dates and other matters will require several days to straighten out, and it was said after an all-day session of the committee today that the dates would not be in shape to make public before another week. A list of about 200 contests is expected.

Those at the meeting are President Robert D. Wrenn of New York, Vice-President Henry Slocum of New York, Secretary A. L. Hoskins of Philadelphia, Treasurer Richard Stevens of Hoboken, Palmer E. Presby of Boston, Raymond D. Little of New York and Edwin F. Torrey of Utica, N. Y.

PEACE PLAN FOR BROWN-GREEN

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 23.—If negotiations which are now being carried on can be successfully terminated athletic relations between Brown and Dartmouth, which were severed in 1907 when the Dartmouth team left Andrews Field in this city in disgust at a decision rendered by Umpire Lanigan, may be resumed in time for the Fall football season.

A delegation of Brown graduates has conferred with President W. H. P. Faunce and Dean Meiklejohn in regard to the matter and while those two officials are somewhat averse to taking the initial steps, it is believed that a way will be found to get over the difficulty.

At the conference it developed that the graduates who had achieved some prominence as athletes and the great majority of the students who are at present in college, are heartily in favor of a resumption of the relations.

Graduates of Dartmouth in this city and elsewhere have hinted that the Hanover college is in a receptive mood if overtures are forthcoming from Brown, and in all likelihood all that will be necessary will be for the two colleges to shake hands and then arrange their football schedules, which will include a game between elevens representing the two institutions.

Among the graduates who attended the conference were Michael J. Lynch, the famous Brown pitcher, who, in after years, twirled for the Pittsburg team; John S. Murdock, vice-president of the Grand Trunk railroad; Colonel Irving O. Hunt and E. H. Weekes.

The local graduates of Dartmouth will meet tomorrow evening for their semi-annual luncheon and during the evening they will discuss the situation.

Save Hammer Throw Urges Walter Camp

NEW HAVEN, March 23.—Walter Camp, in an interview in the Yale News, makes a plea for the retention of the hammer throw in collegiate athletics. He says the danger argument that has been advanced by some colleges for its abolishment is not a sound one.

Mr. Camp suggests making this department of track sports more interesting to spectators by placing flags to mark past records.

A thrilling hockey match is expected when the strong B. A. A. and Intercolonial sevens clash in the fourth game of their series to decide the hockey championship of New England at the Arena tonight. The game is sure to be bitterly contested throughout every second of the two periods.

This is the fourth game of the championship series. The series now stands 2 to 1 in favor of the Intercolonials and the Roxbury seven is out to end the series by winning tonight's game.

The B. A. A. is represented by some wonderful hockey players and close followers of hockey attribute their downfall in the last two games to the fact that the men have been doing too much work on the ice this season.

The Exeter street team has not done a great deal of work for a week and it is believed that the layoff will prove beneficial to the men. They are all reported as being in excellent condition and ready to put up the battle of a lifetime.

A large sized crowd of hockey enthusiasts will be on hand in order to take in the festivities. The two teams are sure to furnish a red hot battle.

The game will be refereed by New York officials as was the case at the last game. If local officials were in charge, the losing seven would undoubtedly claim that it did not get a square deal.

The New York officials are not acquainted with the players of either team and are sure to render their decisions impartially.

If the B. A. A. team wins out tonight the deciding game of the series will be played some time next week. The Intercolonial stars, however, claim that there is not a chance in the world of the B. A. A. seven winning.

Osgood, Huntington, Hicks and Sortwell will start the game on the forward line for the B. A. A. This quartet works together like a well oiled machine. Huntington is one of the classiest players in the East, as he has proved by his fine all-round work the past season.

Hicks is a seasoned veteran of the rink and may always be relied upon to make a good showing.

Heron, Foster and Canterbury will start the game for the Unicorn club. This is a good defensive trio.

The Intercolonials will put its strongest team on the ice and if they do not win it will not be because they have not played their hardest.

PADDY CALLAHAN IN BOUT IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, March 23.—Featherweights will hold the boards at the National A. C. of Brooklyn tonight, when Irish Paddy, a local production who has done a lot of boxing in New England, will hook up for ten rounds with Buck (Twin) Miller, a New England lightweight.

OLYMPIC FUND STILL GROWING

NEW YORK, March 23.—Seven more contributions have been added to the Olympic fund. They were small sums, but their receipt pleased the committee, which again announced it was confident enough money would be subscribed to send All-America's champions to Stockholm next Summer.

The contributors were William Allen Butler, New York, $25; W. C. Muschenheim, New York, $10; I. D. Fletcher, New York, $5; C. A. Taussig, New York, $5; Meadow Brook Club, Philadelphia, $50; Artisan Club, Philadelphia, $25, and Junior A. A. of Philadelphia, $10.

It was also announced that M. S. Payne, treasurer of the New York Athletic Club, has received $1,500 from the members of the Mercury foot organization to help swell the fund. Mr. Payne said the money would not be turned over to the Olympic Committee for several days, as he expected this sum would be doubled within a short time.

Cobb Released After First Game as 'Pro'

"My Early Experience as a Ball Player," was the subject of a talk which Ty Cobb delivered at a baseball banquet a short time ago.

"I spent a lot of money for postage and wasted a lot of stationery trying to get my first real job as a ball player," said Tyrus, "and finally got a $90 contract with the Augusta team—which looked some big.

"The first day I played I got a home run and a two-bagger, and began to feel I was quite a b l player.

"Over night the conviction grew stronger, and when I went on the field the next day I was sure I was a pretty good player. But the manager handed me my release right after that game and I had a good chance to revise my opinion of myself in the hours which immediately followed."

Huff Gives Pointers On College Baseball

NEW YORK, March 23.—Scholarship standing should be the basis of eligibility in college athletics and the practice of barring from college baseball all men who play on professional teams is all "bosh," according to the views of George Huff, athletic director of University of Illinois.

"College athletics should be based on what a man does in college and not what he does outside," he said. "At the University of Illinois a man has to be in the college one year before he can play on a baseball team of the college, and that prevents the professional 'flavor' and 'ringers' creeping in."

300 After Places in Prison Ball League

LEAVENWORTH, Kansas, March 23.—Three hundred men expressed a desire to play baseball when steps were taken at the federal prison here to reorganize the prison league for the 1912 season yesterday. They drew lots for a tryout.

Ball games between teams on which prisoners only were allowed to play were tried for the first time at the prison last season and proved a success.

The baseball league is an inducement for the men to keep the rules of the institution, as only model prisoners are allowed to play. This year the white men, negroes and the Indians in the prison will have teams in the league.

CARDINALS BACK HOME.

ST. LOUIS, March 23.—Roger Bresnahan, manager of the St. Louis National League Club, and his squad of baseball players have arrived here from Jackson, Miss., and will complete their training on home grounds.

Schoolboy Hockey Champions Battle

Melrose High hockey champions meet the New Rochelle high seven this afternoon, at the Arena, and a great game is looked for.

Melrose does not fear the outcome, as the local boys believe they can defeat the New Yorkers as easily as they did the Hope Street High School of Providence.

BURNS IS AFTER JOHNSON BOUT

CHICAGO, March 23.—Tommy Burns, former heavyweight champion, who made it possible for Jack Johnson to win the title, today is out to win it back. In a telegram to a Chicago afternoon paper, Burns challenged the colored heavyweight and supported his defi with $1,000 forfeit posted with an Alberta, Canada, sporting editor. Here is the challenge:

"Jack Johnson, Chicago:

"I challenge you for a twenty-round battle to be fought in any place you may name, but I prefer Alberta on Labor Day. If you don't want to fight me, I will take your place in July in your fight with Jim Flynn, provided that you sign articles and post a big forfeit that if I beat Flynn you will agree to meet me. I will also bet you my end of the purse in the Flynn fight that I win.

(Signed) "TOMMY BURNS."

Burns' challenge came out after he was told that Johnson was of the belief that he, Burns, was not serious in his desire to meet him.

Dunn and Kilbane Not Bound By a Contract

Jimmy Dunn, manager of World's Featherweight Champion Johnny Kilbane, was offered $25,000 for something he does not possess—his contract with Johnny. Dunn and Kilbane work on a basis of mutual friendship and confidence, and are not bound by any written agreement.

When asked if it were true that he had been offered $25,000 for his contract, Dunn said: "Yes, that is straight; but the funny thing about the matter is, I never had a contract with Johnny and I never want one. Johnny and I are friends, and we take each other's word for everything.

"It is a fact nevertheless, that a moving picture man at Los Angeles offered me $25,000 to turn Johnny over to him. I think too much of that kid personally to let any monetary inducement ever get us apart."

More Football Men Is Haughton's Plea

A meeting of the Harvard football candidates held in the Harvard Union was attended by 30 men. Coach Percy Haughton outlined the plans for the Spring practice and urged every man who could possibly do so to come out.

He emphasized the value of the Spring work, both to the players and the men who had charge of the material.

Work will begin Monday on Soldiers Field, and will continue for three weeks. The first week will be devoted to conditioning the men, and the last two to scrimmaging.

Want Single Head for Major Sports at Yale

NEW HAVEN, March 23.—Yale's major sports—football, baseball, crew and track—instead of being controlled by separate organizations, will hereafter be merged into one body, to be known as the Yale Athletic Association, if the plans of the athletic advisory committee are ratified next Tuesday at a student mass meeting.

This would do away with the present financial committee, of which Walter Camp, '80, is chairman, and a new committee with similar powers is planned.

The action of the committee is in line with the recent move to place all managerships upon a competitive basis, giving both the academic department and the Sheffield Scientific School equal representation.

WALTER BESTS GOODWIN.

In the forty-seventh game of the Class B amateur billiard tourney at the Elite, Walter defeated Goodwin, 200 to 114.

Pilgrims Tackle Bisons Today

Big Cy Gives Record Exhibition

By L. R. MURDOCH,
Sporting Editor, American.

L.R.MURDOCH

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 23.—Kling's Pilgrims, all gingered up for the occasion, sail into George T. Stallings' Bisons of the International League this afternoon in the Bostonians' first game of baseball this year.

As additional attractions, Ty Cobb, the hero of Georgia and of all the United States, will play with the Buffalo team and Cy Young, the grand old man, who pitched five innings of no-hit, no-run, no-man-reach-first baseball yesterday, will do part of the twirling for the Pilgrims.

RECORD GAME FOR BIG CY YOUNG.

This is Augusta's first baseball game this season. With the temperature in the eighties, the hotels full of Northerners Wintering in this section and the two headliners mentioned, Augusta Park ought to be crowded.

In anticipation of a big gathering, all of the fences, which had been allowed to fall when and where they wanted to, have been jacked up and there isn't even a knot hole left for the youth of Augusta.

The contest ought to be interesting in Boston, because it will give the National League "fans" the first accurate line on what their new team can do under new management.

Johnny Kling planned to line his men up thus: Sweeney, 2b; Campbell, c.f.; Miller, r.f.; Jackson, l.f.; Hauser, 1b; Ingerton or Spratt, ss.; McDonald, 3b; Rariden and Gowdy, c.; Tyler, Young and Donnelly, p.

Cy Young's feat yesterday was the first no-hit, no-run, no-man-reach-first game of 1912. The "grand old man" pitched it against the Pilgrims' second team, to be sure, and he was only allowed to play five innings, but it was a feat worth recording, nevertheless.

Fifteen men faced Cy in the five innings. Three were completely fooled and were called out on strikes. Three popped to Rariden, the catcher. Five went out on infield grounders and four flied to the outfield.

Nothing Like It in Training History.

It is doubtful if exactly the same record was ever made under such circumstances in a training season exhibition game. There is no telling what Cy would have done if he had continued. He was in shape to finish the job as he was eager to continue the game, but the exigencies of March baseball prevented.

Kling derricked Cy, substituted C. Bradley Hogg, the giant, and but three men reached first off his delivery. Two of these scratched hits and the third was given a life on Hauser's muff of Spratt's good throw in the eighth inning.

Another remarkable record of the game was that only twenty-eight Yannigans faced the two regular pitchers. Wall, who made one of the hits off Hogg, was caught trying to stretch it into a double. Lewis, the other safe hitter, was doubled by a championship play by Bill Sweeney who knocked down Perdue's hard grounder, tagged Lewis and threw out Perdue.

One Great Day for the Grand Old Man.

Cy's performance stands out in this notable day of Spring baseball. Remember that this athlete began playing professional baseball three years before "Rebel" McTigue, his brother twirler, who, by the way, is the youngest National League player pitcher, landed on earth.

Cy was the most ambitious man on the field. He could scarcely wait until the Regulars went out before he had his glove on and started for the box. He had all sorts of "stuff" and made the Yannigans look like a bunch of kids without cutting loose any of his "smoke."

Cy is in such good condition that he must have a vast quantity of his old-time speed stored away for later use. What he will do when the league season opens ought to be one of the most interesting features in baseball this year.

Young and Hogg had most excellent support. It was the first time the Pilgrims have worked on a regular diamond since they have come into condition. The only error was Hauser's muff and the big first sacker only dropped that probably because it looked too easy. He had his man by a mile and the throw was dropped into his mit.

Spratt and Kirke Given Chance to Work.

The Regulars hit the Yannigan pitchers for eight safeties, Campbell's being for two bases. Bill Sweeney walked twice and corraled a single in four appearances. He is Kling's favorite at the top of the batting list. Miller singled once and drew a pass. He and Jackson worked a double steal.

Kling benched Ingerton and McDonald for the day and worked Spratt and Kirke on that side of the diamond. This quartet are fighting for the two jobs, one of which will be temporary, of course, and will last only till Bridwell is back in form or somebody develops into a better shortstop than Bridwell.

Kling tried Walter Dickson and Hub Perdue in the box against Young and Hogg. Dickson, who has shown what looks like coming form, pitched four innings for the Yannigans and the Regulars found him for only two hits and a pass, all of them bunched in the first inning, netting two runs.

Perdue, who is an excellent shape, did not use any speed and was hit six times, besides passing two.

The Pilgrim manager is satisfied with Perdue's condition and has not asked him to show anything yet. He was curious about Dickson, however, and has watched his two games closely. The lad looks good.

KLAUS-DILLON BATTLE TODAY

By JACK CONWAY.

Frank Klaus of Pittsburg and Jack Dillon of Indianapolis clash in the most important middleweight battle of the year at Coffroth's arena at Daly City today. The men are scheduled to box twenty rounds and the winner will be in line for the middleweight title, which has been without a holder since the untimely death of Stanley Ketchell.

Klaus and Dillon are two of the greatest middleweights in the world. Both are young, strong, ambitious and have proved time and again that they possess the "stuff" that makes ring champions.

Betting on the bout is even. There is little to choose between the two men, and the least letup by either is sure to prove disastrous.

Dillon has done some fine work in the squared circle this year, defeating Leo Houck, Billy Berger and Jimmy Gardner. Both Dillon and Klaus are hard hitters and delight in mixing things. Neither of the men have ever been accused of being good boxers.

The winner of to-day's bout will be matched to meet Eddie McGoorty for the middleweight championship of the world.

White and Connolly For Central A. C. Feature.

Boston boxing "fans" should witness a slashing bout when Johnny Connolly and Joe White clash at the Central A. C. next Tuesday night. This is one of the best bouts arranged for the members of the West End Club this season.

Connolly is one of the most promising 138-pounders in this section of the country. He has been fighting as a professional for about a year and has yet to meet defeat. The Scotchman is an exceptionally good boxer and is the master of a tantalizing left jab.

White is a big favorite in South Boston. He recently returned from a successful campaign in New York where he made a great record, winning six straight battles.

Numbered among his victims was Kid Burns, who has the distinction of being one of the few boxers who have ever closed one of the optics of Packey McFarland.

Star Mat Bouts for New Wrestling Club.

Dr. Roller will have to perform in rare form if he is to defeat Sampson in the main bout at the wrestling carnival at the Grand Opera House next Monday night. Sampson is not in line for the heavyweight championship. Neither is he in the same class with Gotch. But he is one of the best grapplers in the West.

Sampson met Champion Gotch about a year ago and the Iowa farmer was compelled to call into play everything that he knew about the wrestling game in order to win. Gotch treated Sampson so roughly that the latter was compelled to remain in an hospital for several weeks after the match.

Mr. Perilli, champion rough house artist of 'em all, and a gentleman by the name of Mr. Polski are sure to put up a corking good bout in the semi-final.

Al Palzer Alone in White Hope Class.

My, but it must be tough on Al Palzer. Almost every edition tells about some new "white hope" getting knocked out or completely outclassed. Palzer is the only "hope" left who appears as though he might possess just a wee little bit of class. The rest of the bunch are—well, call them what you will.

Plazer got a growth removed from his nose the other day and O'Rourke says that his charge will be all right in a week. But will Plazer too get his when he finally meets a real, "live" fighter?

Gibbons and Denning To Meet in Second Bout.

There is sure to be some tall doings when Mike Gibbons and Jack Denning mingle in a ten-round encounter at New York next Tuesday. The men will weigh in at 145 pounds several hours before the fight, which means that both will tip the beam at about 150 pounds when they enter the ring.

Gibbons is taking on weight and inside of a year will be after matches with the leading middleweights in this country.

McDonough Training For Bout With Howard.

Young McDonough of Manchester, N. H., has started training for his bout with Willie Howard of New York, which takes place at the Queensborough A. C., Long Island, on March 29. Hector McInnis is sure that his protege will win. The South Boston manager has also matched Jimmy Moriarty to meet Jack Cotman of Philadelphia before the Windham A. C. of Willimantic, Ct., on March 27. The men will weigh in at 145 pounds.

Mrs. Attell Anxious To Have Abe Retire.

Mrs. Abe Attell says that the Johnny Kilbanes and the Tommy Murphys have gotta quit kicking her spouse around. The wife of the former featherweight champion wants her husband to retire from the ring and to enter business.

She is evidently aware of the fact that Abe's days as a ring star are over. Attell, however, still believes that he would be able to defeat Kilbane in a return battle. Some few inhabitants of the fair city of Cleveland, however, fail to agree with Attell. And then there are others.

The Recruit's Reverie

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

WHEN I was a kid, a thoughtless kid,
I tied a can to a puppy's tail—
A can as large as a milking pail;
Yes, sir, that's what I did.
The puppy yowled and the puppy howled,
And now I know how he felt, by gee!
For yesterday, after I fouled and fouled,
The manager tied a can to me.

WHEN I was a boy and we picked out sides,
I captained a team at our little school.
It was grand the way that I used to rule—
Teaching 'em bunts and slides,
I called 'em this, and I called 'em that.
And now I know how they felt the sting.
For yesterday, after I failed at bat,
The manager called me everything.

Clergymen at Bouts In Biddle Gymnasium

PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—Anthony J. Drexel Biddle gave a boxing show in his private gymnasium in the rear of his Walnut street home for the benefit of several clergymen, several vestrymen and fifty members of his Bible class.

This was the first full-fledged tournament Mr. Biddle has held since early last Summer, when Timothy O'Leary, then Assistant Director of Public Safety served notice upon him that his little private affairs must be given under the same regulations as professional shows.

There were seven three-round bouts, one between Jerry Holloway and Nix Fotterall, fourteen-year-olders, for the championship of Delancey school. The bout was a draw. Herbert L. Crowhurst was referee at all the bouts, but made no decisions.

Boxing Results

PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—Billy Donovan won the Kensington ring title here by decisively defeating Young Nitchie in a six-round vicious set-to before a big crowd of fans. Both boxers hail from the same section of Philadelphia, and they are bitter rivals.

NEW YORK, March 23.—"Knockout" Brown of New York knocked out "Knockout" Jack O'Donnell of Brooklyn in two minutes at the Carlyle A. C. in Brooklyn. The New Yorker didn't give the Brooklynite much chance to live up to his nom de ring.

The boxing exhibition under the auspices of the Malden Social and Physical Culture Association, was well attended. The first bout of six rounds between Joe Smith of Boston and Rupie Donnelly of Malden. Eddie Kenney of Cambridge and Young Murphy of Boston went six rounds. Young Carlo of Worcester met Joe O'Brien of Cambridge, the latter getting the decision at the end of eight rounds. In the principal bout, between George "Bud" Crocker of Milwaukee and Bob Brenner of Charlestown, Crocker got his quietus in less than one round.

LOWELL, March 23.—In the main bout in the rooms of the Lowell A. C. Terry Martin of Philadelphia knocked out Jack Cunningham of Buffalo in the third round. Cunningham substituted for Bill McKinnon of Boston. Young Walsh of Lowell and Joe Carroll of Brooklyn, N. Y., fought eight fast rounds in the semi-final, the decision going to Walsh. In the preliminaries, Young Stone of Lowell bested Young Roach of Boston and Brooks Gardner of this city won an easy victory over Young Hennessy of Lowell.

COLUMBUS, O., March 23.—In one of the best fights seen here in years, George Coogan of Indianapolis secured slightly the better of the argument in his ten-round go with Kid Ashe of Cincinnati. From the very first round the milling was fast and clean.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Young Dyson of Providence knocked out Del Bruno of Chicago in the eighth round of their bout at the New Polo A. A. From the start it was apparent that Dyson had the Chicago man's measure. The Providence lad dropped his adversary in the seventh for the count of seven.

POEHLER AGAIN MEETS DEFEAT

For the second time in as many nights, Paul Poehler, the New England bowling champion, has been defeated, Archie Walsh of East Boston, being the latest to lower the title holder's colors.

Poehler and Walsh met at Gloucester and before a large contingent of bowling fans, Walsh beat out Poehler by 26 pins, in a 10-string match, the totals being 1,070 and 1,044.

Walsh started well and got an early lead. At the beginning of the eighth string he had a lead of 106 pins. He then began to weaken and Poehler made a gallant finish, winning the last three strings and cutting the lead down to 26 pins.

Walsh made the highest string, which was 143. Poehler's highest was 129. The scores:

Walsh—96, 113, 143, 108, 111, 105, 105, 100, 94, 95—1,070.
Poehler—98, 93, 101, 88, 100, 110, 95, 120, 123, 112—1,044.

Kirk Not After Poehler For the Murray Team

Walter Kirk put an end to a report which was circulated among the City League "fans," to the effect that Paul Poehler was to take his place in the Murray & Irwin lineup next week.

In speaking with a representative of the AMERICAN Kirk said: "I have made no arrangements with Poehler to bowl with the Murray & Irwin team. I am perfectly satisfied with the way the team is going at present and will make no changes in the lineup unless they are necessary. You can say for me that the team will finish the same as it started."

Mystic Valley Class League Race is Close

The Mystic Valley Class League will end its season next Tuesday night at the Arch Street Alleys. East Somerville is looked upon to win the championship but the Pinkham class is fighting hard for the money.

Interest centres in the match between the Osgood and Grant classes. The teams will roll for double points. In order to get third place the Grant class will have to win a large majority of the points, as the Lymans and Northwesterns are also contenders for that position.

Strings of 70 Strong For This New Wonder.

The bowlers at the Old Colony alleys are trying to learn the identity of their latest visitor, who, after relating to some of the cracks how he had defeated Christopher Walsh, Poehler and other well-known bowlers, started in to bowl.

Walking over to the score sheet, he placed the initial "S" upon it. The Old Colony cracks thought they were getting roped in and got rather nervous, but when "S" had finished four strings they found out he had an average under 70.

WOLGAST STANDS BY MANAGER JONES

SEATTLE, Wash., March 23.—"If Tom McCarey wants to do business with Ad Wolgast he will have to do it through Tom Jones, my manager," the lightweight champion said. "Jones and I have been partners for three years. We are more than manager and fighter—we are fast friends. I know what a fight is worth and know that McCarey's offer of $12,500 is not a fair one, and Tom told the truth when he wired McCarey that his offer caused a big laugh here."

TECH TRACK TEAM DATES ANNOUNCED

The track season at Technology started in the Tech Union with a meeting of the track men. Coach Kanaly and Capt. Dalrymple spoke. New Star Haunts Red Sox Leader

Weather Upsets Stahl's Plans

By H. B. SCHULTZ.
Special American Correspondent with the Red Sox.

HARLEIGH B SCHULTZ

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 23.—He wants to wear Red Socks and his name is Cecil, nice boy, too, mild mannered, nineteen years old, and so ambitious that he threw up a banking job, journeyed all the way from cold Winnipeg to see "Jake" Stahl about becoming a recruit in the ranks. But Manager Stahl hasn't invited the lad to make himself at home.

The rest of Cecil's name is Patrick Lloyd. He never starred in the game, but the Winnipeg would-be is just waiting to see if something won't turn up. Every man on the team has looked him over, said they had personal views, but didn't mind adding for publication they never in the world thought Cecil Patrick would make a baseball player.

WEATHER HOLDS UP PRACTICE.

Today he asked "Jake" to sign him up, and when the manager said nay, Cecil said he would be content to be farmed out to a Bush League for a year just to show he was a coming infielder. "Nothing doing," said Stahl, "our pay roll is big enough now, and really we have enough players to carry us through."

The youngster says his parents were opposed to him coming, as they had mapped out a future for him more to their liking. He was so sure he would be welcomed into the Red Sox fold that he brought little money with him. Now he is looking for any old job that will tide him over a spell.

The lad by chance has "Jack" Chesbro for a boomer, and his coming has given them something to talk about during the dull period of the last two days.

Unpropitious weather has taken the crimp out of the team's training schedule and the players have been forced to content themselves with walks into the mountains.

Manager Stahl is hopeful of better things today, and, should the weather man prove charitable, there will be a workout on the grounds with a game between the Regulars and Yannigans this afternoon.

The outfield has been in bad shape, but should the clouds continue to hold off, the cold wind may be effective in drying up the miry sod.

Wood Shows Boys How to Play Golf.

The lay-off gave "Tris" Speaker one chance which he escaped and that was to learn all about tees and other golf incidentals. It turned out that "Joe" Wood, who, by the way, may be expected to pitch great ball for Boston this Summer, is an expert on the links. "Joe" asked "Spoke" and "Jack" Chesbro to join in a set-to, the last named being a pretty good player.

Off to the course they piled aboard one of the pay-as-you-enter, conductorless trolley cars. Four hours they spent in circling the grounds, "Joe" winning both games that were played, Chesbro coming second and "Tris," the novice, third.

The trio turned in all about twelve miles, which served as their share of the day's workout.

The rest of the team went off in the morning for a five mile jaunt and again in the afternoon jogged away from the quarters in the bath house.

Most of the matinee session was covered on the run up hill and down dale. First up the mountain was "Eddie" Cicotte, who remarked as he increased his chest expansion: "Gee, I would like to take this air along with me."

Marathon honors went to "Jack" Bushelman, the lofty pitcher with the long stride. Bushelman, it was learned, had something of a sprinting record up in Cincinnati. The next five finished in this order: Bedient, Hooper, Nunamaker, "Duffy" Lewis, and Hendrickson.

McRoy is Strong for Henrikson.

The experts say the Red Sox outfield combination—Hooper, Lewis and Speaker, is the best in the world. By the way, Henrikson will have to go some to replace any one of the three, for the trio work together in great style.

"Bob" McRoy thinks that Henrikson is going to become a great baseball player.

Leonard Likely to Capture a Place.

President McAleer likes pitcher Leonard's appearance and style, and as a matter of fact, nobody now doubts the young Californian left hander is destined to remain in the Red Sox fold.

Bushelman the Real Red Sox "Early Bird."

Pitcher Bushelman is the "early bird" of the camp. He is up with the lark every morning, long before the bellhops have called the contingent at 8 o'clock—the fixed hour daily and Sunday.

"Early to bed and early to rise," says Bushelman, "helps a lot."

Pape Holds Record for Speed in Dressing.

"Larry" Pape holds the record for speed in dressing. The genial pitcher once held down a job where he had to report at 8. He says he never got out of bed until 7.45 and never was late at the office for work. Almost as speedy as his pitching, eh?

"The Wells of Peace"

FAR from the shore I hear the water falling,
The water from the hidden wells of Peace;
Far from the shore where men pursue their calling,
And work, and laugh, and talk, and will not cease.

Deep in the heart whereon God lays His Shadow—
The shadow that His loneliness has made—
Deep in the heart where dwells the Lonely Sorrow,
The seven wells lie hidden in the shade.

Five ye may find before your journey's over,
The journey that but ends with setting sun;
Five ye may find; and yet one more discover
What time your life upon the Earth is done.

Then by the road that leads from dark Endurance,
The dark Endurance that your love has willed—
By that long road, through deepening assurance,
Your soul shall reach the well of Love Fulfilled.

Good Stories of Famous Folk

Sir Thomas Lipton

MANY years ago Sir Thomas Lipton, having secured a large contract in connection with his growing business, advertised for assistants and decided to interview them himself.

On Monday morning the plainly dressed young business man arrived at his office to find a long line of applicants waiting outside.

"'Ha, ha!' I chuckled" (Sir Thomas tells the tale himself), "as I passed my way to the door. 'Good, strong, able-bodied men, all of 'em. Just the fellows for——'

"'Bash!' I was hurled across the pavement, hit a lamp-post and found myself in the gutter. And then a deep voice said:

"'Wot's your little game, eh? You line up be'ind, an' like yer turn!'"

Andrew Carnegie

Mr. Andrew Carnegie tells a tale about taking a German financier travelling in America on a visit to Niagara Falls.

The millionaire, accustomed to bursts of wonderment and enthusiasm, was not a little astonished to see his Teutonic friend stand and gaze stolidly minute after minute upon that roaring cataract, without evincing the fulntest emotion.

Finally, unable, as he admits, any longer to conceal his chagrin and disappointment, Mr. Carnegie turned to his companion and asked:

"Don't you think that's a wonderful sight?"

"Vot?" asked the German.

"Why, that gigantic body of water pouring over that lofty precipice."

The gentleman from the Fatherland stood for a few seconds longer, until he got the sees digested, then looked up blankly and asked:

"Vell, vot's to hinder it?"

Lord Strathcona

AMI by del

In Canada many years ago the Dominion government issued a mandate to the effect that each Indian in the future should take unto himself but one wife.

At that time the now veteran, Lord Strathcona, then plain Donald Smith, was acting as special commissioner to a section of the Blackfoot Nation of redskins, and the following conversation took place between him and Grey Wolf, a chief with a great gift of humor:

"Did you tell your looks that they must have but one wife, Grey Wolf?"

"Yes, me tell 'um," responded the Indian.

"Did they get rid of the extra wives?"

"I tink no," responded the chief.

"Come, this will never do," said the future Lord Strathcona. "Besides, I'm told that you yourself have six wives."

"Yes, me got six," said Grey Wolf.

"Now, you've got to get rid of those extra wives, Grey Wolf. You go home and tell them to leave. Send them back to their parents. Tell them to go home."

"You tell 'um," responded the Indian.

BACKACHE NOT A DISEASE

But a Symptom, a Danger Signal Which Every Woman Should Heed.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangements. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Read about Mrs. Woodall's experience.

Morton's Gap, Kentucky.—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had soreness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since. I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. OLLIE WOODALL, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

Every woman ought to have Lydia E. Pinkham's 30-Page Text Book. It is not a book for general distribution, as it is too expensive. It is free, and only obtainable by mail. Write for it today. Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

Lillian Lorraine's Beauty Secrets for Girls

How to Have Beautiful Eyes

By LILLIAN LORRAINE

WHAT would poets do if women suddenly ceased having beautiful eyes or if they all wore spectacles?

I've often wondered about it, because most love songs have something about "eyes" in them, usually at the end of a line, so that a convenient rhyme can be made.

Eyes are an inspiration to poets, and we depend upon our eyes as much for the beauty we possess as we do for that which we enjoy.

You can look like a fish, but if you have beautiful eyes you will not be quite impossible.

On the other hand, if you have ugly "fishy" eyes—not even a Greek nose and dimples will save your face.

They Tell Tales

The eyes are great telltales. They give you away, showing every one who knows how to read in them just what you are feeling and thinking.

Of course, most of all, they are influenced by your general health, and it is quite hopeless to expect to have bright eyes if you are run down, fatigued or unhappy.

I don't believe one should ever try to make the eyes large, though I have been told that both Jane Hading and beautiful Leutleur, the French actress, who was drowned last year, had their eyes made larger by a slight operation at the corners of the lids.

This was a kind of slit, which is sometimes done to the eyes of Oriental beauties to make the eyes look larger. I should say no, thank you, to that kind of thing, because it must be fearfully dangerous.

Everything is dangerous that in any way affects the eyes, and you must never be pursuaded to put anything into your eyes to dilate the pupils or make them seem larger. There are lots of good eye washes, usually made of rose water and boric acid, but they are only for bathing the eyes.

When I have bathed my eyes in the morning I always dip my faces into a basin of clear, cold water and open my eyes once or twice. This is a fine tonic for tired, red eyes and eyelids, and it's so simple that no harm can be done.

When They Are Tired

When the eyes are very tired I think very gentle massage or vibrasage is the best thing for them, and there are some wonderful places where you can have the most delightful treatment for tired and inflamed eyes.

Sometimes a little home massage, just the gentlest pressure of the forefinger around the edge of the eye socket will keep wrinkles from coming. Use your forefinger and a little cream or skin food and rub very gently, always rubbing from the inner corner to the outer edge of the eye. Be very careful not to get any grease or oil in the eye itself.

At this time of year we see so many eyes with yellow tinged eyeballs. It's one dear old friend, Spring fever, and that unruly member of the family—the liver getting busy or rather getting lazy. The old-fashioned recipe of sulphur and molasses hasn't yet been improved upon as a Spring beautifier for "yellowish" eyes. Any druggist will tell you how to mix it.

Does Your Skin Burn? Is It Inflamed or Irritated?

A simple application of the new remedy, Cadum, will stop the burning and itching and prevent infection from disease germs. Cadum is an antiseptic that is wonderfully soothing and healing to any inflamed, irritated or broken skin and can be used with confidence for skin and scalp troubles of adults and infants. A small cut, scratch, sore or wound is a nesting-place for disease germs. Cadum should be in every home for immediate use in all such emergencies, and for prompt application in skin troubles. It has proved a blessing to many who have suffered for years from tormenting and disfiguring skin diseases. Cadum acts quickly upon eczema, pimples, blotches, rashes, eruptions, sores, rough skin, chafings, itching piles. Of all druggists.

Lillian Lorraine's Rules for Care of the Eyes

Don't clip your eyelashes to make them grow. Sometimes they won't.

One can do a lot toward beautifying the eyes by caring for the eyelashes. Red vaseline stimulates their growth.

A little cologne rubbed over the skin will often cure inflammation of the eyelids.

In the morning I always slip my face into a basin of clean, cold water and open my eyes once or twice. This is fine tonic for tired red eyes.

Everything is dangerous that affects the eyes, and you must never be persuaded to put anything into your eyes.

YOU CAN'T CHANGE YOUR EYES, BUT YOU CAN MAKE THE MOST OF THEM.

A great many people have red and inflamed eyelids all the time, and this simply spoils the beauty of the eyes.

After all, even if you had eyes as big as saucers, if the rims were always red you would be a sight. A little pure cologne rubbed over the skin will often cure the inflammation, and cologne is very good for freshening and prettying up. Put the cologne gently over the under eyelids and over the fine lines around the eyes. I can recommend this for older women, as a lovely white-haired old lady told me about it. She hadn't a line around her eyes, no crow's feet at all, and she said it was due to her constant use of cologne in this way.

Character Windows

People who read character say they can judge people very accurately by the eyes.

In the first place, the brown eye is said to be more fascinating than the blue eye, but the "blues" are more intellectual.

The wise person has gray eyes, which indicate that you are a reader of character yourself.

Round eyes mean curiosity. Long, Oriental eyes show a more secretive or a dreamy nature. Eyes very far apart denote a frank and honest nature, while people whose eyes are set too close together are usually suspicious.

Girls whose eyelids show a good deal even when the eye is wide open are very sensitive.

HATS WITH LACE FRILLS MAKE FASCINATING SHADOWS.

IF YOU HAVE PRETTY EYES DON'T LOSE HOPE—YOU MAY STILL BE A BEAUTY.

Eyes that show a great deal of white below the iris denote a tendency to over-eating and a love of good food.

People with the artistic temperament usually have large, full, sparkling and vivacious eyes. The roguish eye is always fascinating, while people with glittering eyes are usually unsympathetic, because they generally think only of themselves.

One can do a lot toward beautifying the eyes by caring for the eyelashes. Red vaseline stimulates their growth. Rub it on every night faithfully and you will soon see a great improvement.

When you wash your face rub your eyebrows and eyelashes with the face cloth and towel. This cleans them thoroughly and takes away the dead skin which is so apt to cling there and which causes the hair to fall out.

Don't clip your eyelashes in the hope of making them grow. Sometimes they won't, and it's better to have short lashes than none at all.

Do You Know That—

Hangmen's autographs are not a valued marketable property. A few days ago a collection of letters bearing the signatures of Calcraft, Berry and Billington, with the autograph of the notorious Crippen thrown in, only realized $4 at a London sale. Berry's autograph appeared on a letter to an editor, protesting that an impostor had been attracting to himself a certain amount of attention by declaring in the public houses of the district that he himself was Berry.

He found that by introducing alternating current through the pickling brine the hams could be cured in from thirty to thirty-five days, as against ninety to a hundred by the ordinary method. A large plant in Cleveland, O., is now curing meat by this process. The plant generates direct current for use in various capacities and a portion of it is converted into alternating current by means of a rotary converter, to provide the energy used in the curing vats.

The New York Fire Department is proud of Happy, the Dalmatian dog belonging to one of its members. Happy possesses the rare accomplishment of being able to climb ladders, and this feat and the dog's great sagacity were instrumental in saving three lives. What He Sought

IN his office the man of law was busy studying an intricate case.

So deeply intent was he that he failed to hear the door pushed open, or to see the little golden head which was thrust into the office.

At last a deep sob attracted his attention. Looking up, he saw a small boy, with tear-streaked face and watery eyes.

"Well, my lad," said the lawyer, "and what do you want?"

"Are you a lawyer?" asked the lad, stuffing a grimy fist into each eye, and marking time with his whimpering.

"Yes, sonnie," came the reply. "That's my calling in life."

"Then—then, please," said the newcomer, in a tear-choked voice, "I want a divorce from my papa and mamma!"

With that chill weariness grim failure brings—
When sadly to my soul the low wind sings
Of pale Ambition's death and broken pride—
Then, O beloved Books, that hold and hide
The myriad thoughts of Man within your wings,
To you I turn whose voice, unceasing rings,
Heard ev'unheard, through ages, deep and wide.
How grateful the refreshment that out flows
From all your serried ranks!—fair prison-place
Of Fancy, feather-frail, fine wrought to grace,
Or gay with light which from Mirth's lamp glows.
How brave the hope you proffer, world-tried Friends!
Weeping with you, how soon my weeps ends!

Admiration Versus Criticism

By VIRGINIA TERHUNE VAN DE WATER

MOST of us have the habit of criticism, and it is one of the most disagreeable and at the same time one of the cheapest that can be cultivated. The veriest ignoramus and vulgarian can criticise, or find fault—not always intelligently, perhaps, but intelligently enough to suit himself.

When one meets a stranger who has any decided personality one cannot avoid forming some opinion of the new acquaintance. One most observe something, and what that something will be depends largely upon the trend of mind of the observer.

It is strange that so many people should seek points to censure rather than qualities to admire in those with whom they are thrown in contact. It is much pleasanter to regard agreeable things than disagreeable—then why accent the latter class by paying special attention to them?

When I was a girl I cut from a calendar and pasted in my scrapbook the suggestion: "Strive to learn the hard lesson of admiring rather than criticising." I do not know who wrote the wise bit of counsel, but I wish I could thank the writer. The words stuck, not only in the book, but in my mind, and have aid themselves over often when I have been tempted to pass what some one calls "a snapshot judgment." It is surprising when one follows the advice contained in that single sentence how many delightful people one meets and how many admirable traits one notes in almost every acquaintance.

Would Be Happier

For it is truism that in our intercourse with others we usually see the characteristics for which we are searching. And, if we would consider the matter simply from the standpoint of personal comfort, we would appreciate that we would be much happier if we looked only for the good things in our friends and acquaintances.

Then, too, the absence of criticism makes one much more agreeable as companion and guest. Does not each of us know some person who is so critical that we dread to have her meet our friends? Of course, the critic herself is not all that she blames others for not being, but she has grown accustomed to looking for defects rather than for beauty.

Note how quick some women are to detect the unfashionable touch in a costume, to remark that a sleeve is of last year's cut, or that a certain hat is no longer in style. And, all the time, the dress that is under fire may be of an exquisite material and the colors on the hat really artistic. Then why not look at those features, and if one must make any comment, let it be of appreciation of these pleasing things?

The lesson of "admiring rather than criticising" may be a hard one to learn, but the converse—that of criticising rather than admiring—can be acquired with painful facility. And it is a habit that grows until it makes the possessor positively disagreeable as an associate. We all become afraid of her, and then, of course, we do not enjoy her presence anywhere or at any time.

What a difference the view-point of those we meet makes! A woman was ready to go walking with a friend when the friend remarked that she intended stopping for a few minutes at the house of a certain acquaintance who was not very well. "It will cheer her to see us," she added.

A Different View

The pair were on their way to the front door when this remark was made. The other woman hesitated for a minute, then turned back.

"Where are you going?" asked her astonished friend.

"Upstairs to change my dress. This one is all very well for the casual observer to see, but it cannot stand the scrutiny and merciless criticism of Mrs. Blank, upon whom you propose calling. It was made last year and she would know that it was."

Does not each of us understand how the wearer of the year-old-costume felt? Has not each of us been fairly comfortable until suddenly brought face to face with some censorious person? Then the dress we thought was fairly presentable appears shabby and we remember that the skirt never did hang just right; we cannot talk with ease any longer; whenever we speak we imagine that our voice, language and manner are being criticised. We all know that there are some women and a few men in whose presence we "feel like fools," and "have nothing to say." I sometimes wonder if it is not because some subtle instinct tells us that the person in question considers us fools, and is sitting in judgment on our speech and bearing.

And yet none of us wishes her acquaintances to feel uncomfortable in her presence. Then do let us look for the pleasant things in those around us.

"Isn't Mary sweet?" said one woman to her husband of a friend of whom she was fond.

"She's nobody's pretty child, is she" was the rejoinder.

How could the wife help feeling vexed? Or how could another husband avoid showing temper when, to his enthusiastic remark to the effect that "John Blank is a fine fellow!" his wife replied with: "I don't see how with his table manners were better!"

What's the Use?

What was the use of either of these unkind criticisms? And one of the ironies of the situation is that the very people who are most critical have certain characteristics that could be criticised readily by others were as unmerciful as they. If we could see ourselves as others see us we would talk often and volubly about our friends' good qualities in the hope that by so doing we could keep them from noting our bad ones. Yet one of the homeliest women I ever knew was most scathing in her unfavorable comments of other women's appearance. When she tried to forget her unattractive face and thoughts were drawn forcibly to it by her censure of the features of each person she met. She made the practice of admiring habit very hard for all of us.

The critic is seldom popular with anyone except himself. If we want to bring out the best that is in others as well as in ourselves we have to show appreciation of the good that we know exists and shut our eyes to defects which, strange as it may seem, may make the possessor more uncomfortable than they can possibly make us.

Even When Drowning Appears Certain, the Villain Refuses to Release Beautiful Rosamond

Copyright, 1912, by the National News Association

I.—IN THE FLOODED ROOM.

Inside the room where the water is slowly but surely rising Desmond forces his captive, the beautiful Rosamond, to remain. From outside the door Claude calls encouragingly to his sweetheart. He believes that the water he is letting run into the room will soon force the scoundrel to come out and reveal himself.

II.—THE WATER RISES.

Desmond, however, proves obdurate. He will not come out of the room, nor will he permit Rosamond to escape. As the water rises the two are floating higher and higher, and Rosamond fears that in a few minutes she will be forced against the ceiling and there suffocated. Even then the villain will not relent, and Claude's plan seems to be a failure.

III.—A MOMENT'S RESPITE.

Floating up to the ceiling, Desmond and Rosamond come in contact with the globes encircling the electric lights. Here there is a little air—enough to keep life in them for a few minutes at any rate. It is not much of a respite for the beautiful girl, but it is better than drowning here. Claude outside cannot tell what is happening, but he fears Desmond's villainy.

IV.—SOUND THE ALARM.

To the amazement of the Chinese who own the building, he sees a great flood of water spouting out of the basement windows. At once he collects his startled wits and summons the fire department in the hope of saving his building. He little knows that a precious human life is in danger within, to say nothing of the villain's wretched life.

V.—MAN THE PUMPS.

American machinery runs the world. Even in this Chinese town the fire department is equipped with American pumps. These are quickly set to work pumping the water out of the basement in the hope of saving the property from further damage. The Chinese do not know that anybody is inside the flooded room, but they work away swiftly to save the goods.

VI.—OFF TO THE CELL.

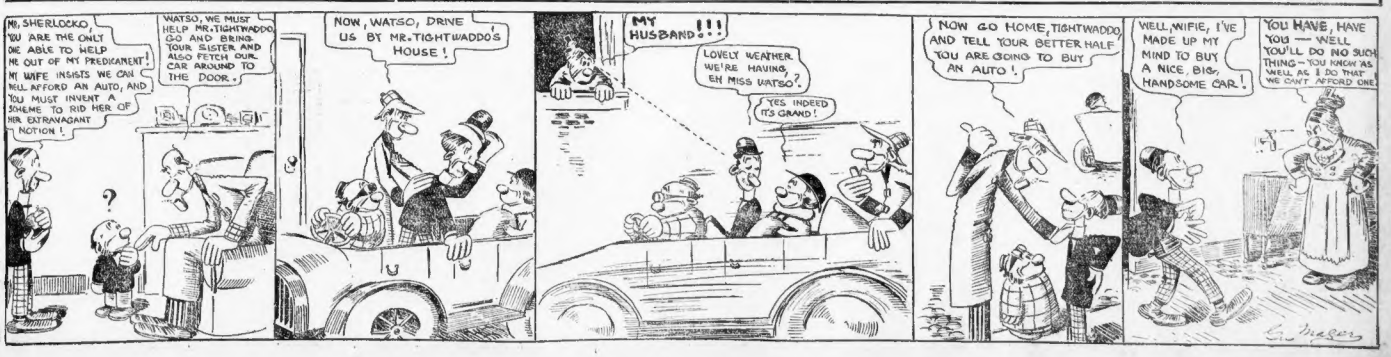

Infuriated by the flooding of the building, the Chinese have captured Desmond and Rosamond and are hauling them off to the cell. Claude tries to explain that he turned on the water to save his sweetheart from the villain, but his captors will not listen to him, and force him on. Monday will show the result.

Interviews

A FEW days' adjournment of court after Peggy's collapse on the stand gave her friends and the public plenty of time for thinking and speculation as to the ultimate outcome of the trial.

Peggy lived practically alone at Admaston House. Her husband, on his return from Paris, had taken up quarters at his club, leaving Peggy in command of the ancestral home.

Here Collingwood was almost a daily visitor. Lady Attwill came occasionally to offer advice and consolation, and usually succeeded in leaving Peggy more miserable than ever before. Lord Ellerdine, too, remained faithful in spite of the objections of his austere connections. These three were all that remained of the court over which Peggy had ruled. The others had fled with half-concealed joy in their hearts. Her beautiful wings had outshone the others so long that there was general satisfaction when some of the coloring was rubbed off by the hand of scandal.

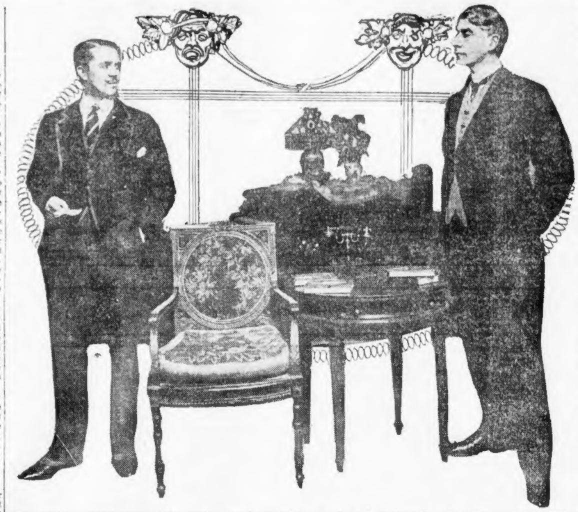

Of the three who remained loyal Peggy found the most pleasure in the society of Ellerdine. He was honestly devoted to her in a purely friendly way. She might have flapped her bright wings in his face for years and never sent a ripple through his stolid British calm. Also he was perfectly honest with her, and as sympathetic as he was honest.

And, somehow, when he told her frankly that she was in "a beastly mess and he would be jiggered if he saw how she was going to get out of it," and that "he would do every bally thing he could think of, but he wasn't much at thinking," it gave her more of a warm, protected feeling than anything else. If Lady Attwill told her the same thing in her low, sweet voice Peggy cried herself to sleep.

There was a subtle reason for this. For while Lady Attwill knew in her heart that Peggy was utterly innocent of any real wrongdoing, her attitude faintly suggested that she believed the worst had happened. Ellerdine, on the other hand, frankly admitted to himself that he believed Peggy guilty, but he was her friend, right or wrong. In many respects Peggy was still a child, and with a child's instinct she was drawn to honesty and good will. No matter what his private convictions might be as to the merits of the case, Lord Ellerdine was convinced that a divorce was a beastly mess from any standpoint. The fact was borne in upon his consciousness some weeks after the scandal became public property. After Peggy's ordeal on the stand he decided that it was his duty to take steps looking to the prevention of any further action. All of which connotes a remarkable mental activity on the part of his lordship.

By a herculean stroke of thought he finally came to the conclusion that he must seek out Admaston and have a talk with him. Action was always driving along in the immediate wake of thought with Ellerdine and so after he had made up his mind to see the injured husband he sent his card up to his apartment at the club.

It was, perhaps, a commentary on the iron man's true feeling toward his wife that he at once admitted the visitor. Though he would not admit it to himself, in his heart he hoped that Ellerdine came as an envoy from Peggy. But therein he showed that he did not quite understand the girl. After her letter had been ignored Peggy would have gone to scaffold and the rack before she would have made another advance.

DICK SWALLOWED HARD AND TOOK A DESPERATE PLUNGE. "I WANTED—ER—IT'S ABOUT PEGGY," HE SAID.

Dicky was just a little nervous as Admaston shook his proffered hand with distant politeness. He had told himself that his training in the Diplomatic was just what was needed for this interview and that he had nothing to fear from Admaston, who had not had his advantages. But the expression of the lined hawk face and frosty gray eyes—the color of a new knife—as Admaston waited for him to begin, all but caused a panic in Dicky's not too well adjusted mentality.

Dicky sank back in a chair and tapped his shoe with his cane. Then he cleared his throat several times and smiled fatuously.

"Deuced good speech of the Chancellor's on the Pension Fund," he said at last. He had not read it, but he had heard that it was said if he could trust his memory Admaston was a leader of the Government party. He thought it was a good diplomatic beginning.

Admaston said that it was—and waited.

Dicky reversed the arrangement of his crossed legs and tapped the other foot for a change. There was a silence of perhaps a full minute. Admaston stirred in his chair. Dicky started.

"Bally lot of talk about it," he remarked.

To Be Continued Monday.

Going the Round

BABY was not well, and as he was the first, his parents were anxious about him. The doctor was paying his second visit.

As he was leaving, the tiny patient's mother said:

"Oh, doctor, that medicine you sent last night for baby is all finished!"

"Impossible!" replied the doctor, in astonishment. "I told you only to give him a teaspoonful before bedtime and one this morning."

"Yes, I know," said the young mother, with flushed cheeks. "But, then, you see, mother and John and nurse and I had all to take a teaspoonful each, too, to get him to take his."

A Little Maid's Moods

By WINIFRED BLACK

"WHAT in the world is the matter with our little girl?" asked a friend of mine of the family doctor not so long ago.

"She's so queer. No, she is not ill exactly; she has a good color and a fine appetite, and she goes to sleep the minute her head touches the pillow and never stirs till morning, but she is so uncertain in her temper.

"She has always been the best natured little thing in the world, delighted to be alive, but now she sits in corners and sulks. She walks with her head thrown back and her chin in the air, and if you say a word to her she gives you a look like a tragedy queen and won't speak for hours. She really must be coming down with something; there is no other explanation."

And the family doctor questioned, and diagnosed, and thought, and he could not find a thing wrong with the little girl.

In a few days he met the mother again. "How is daughter?" he said.

The mother's face clouded: "I was just coming to see you about her," she said. "She's different again, but worse. She doesn't eat, says she can't relish her food, and wants sausage and goat's milk and some queer thing she calls Hasenpfeffer—and she thinks I'm a cruel parent because I simply won't let her drink coffee."

"How is the temper?" said the family doctor.

"Oh," said the mother, "that's the worst of all. She's a perfect angel now. You can't get her mad to save your life. She is patient and sad and forgiving. She has headache, she says, and backache, and the other day when I sent her upstairs she sat on the top step and panted like one far gone in some sort of lung trouble, but she would insist on going just the same."

The family doctor looked very grave. "I'll be over today," he said, and he went over and made the little girl put out her tongue, and he thumped her on the back, and he listened at her chest, and all the time the little girl smiled patiently, and looked, oh! so sad and wise and wistful.

"What are you reading?" said the family doctor, glancing at the book the little girl held in her hand.

"Oh!" cried the little girl, "it's the beautifulest book, all about little Clara. She's a German girl, an invalid, but oh! sweet and gentle and sad, and there's a forlorn Berichstein always misunderstanding her, and a goath—erd, Peter, and an Alm Uncle. You really ought to read it."

"Um," said the family doctor, whirling the leaves. "I see Fraulein Berichstein. Peter seems to be a goatherd when you pronounce him, but what on earth is an Alm Uncle?"

The little girl told him all about the Alm Uncle.

"Ah," said the family doctor, "and what did you read before this?"

"Oh," said the little girl, "a lovely book, 'The Little Colonel.' She was a proud Southern beauty, with such a temper, but so generous and big-souled."

The little girl's mother couldn't stand it a minute longer. "Did the Little Colonel hate boys?" she asked anxiously.

"Yes," said the little girl, "she said they were so rough."

"Poor little brother," sighed the mother. "He wondered why you wouldn't play with him that week."

"Exactly," said the family doctor, shutting his stethoscope. "The next time she's odd see what she's reading."

In a day or so the mother called up the family doctor. "I thought you'd like to know," she said. "She's reading Alcott now, and she wants to be an old-fashioned girl, and wear thick boots and mittens, and learn to sew and cook, and have candy-pulls instead of parties."

"All right," said the family doctor. "I prescribe a course of Louisa Alcott. Keep her on it all Winter. It's a fine health preservative."

And now the little girl's mother doesn't know whether to be glad she has that sort of a little girl, or worried.

Which would you be?

Peace

IT was the Sabbath, and Cityman had made up his mind to spend a P. S. A., which, being interpreted, means a pleasant Sunday afternoon.

He had not been snoozing more than half an hour when a friend popped in, and in so doing disturbed the harmony of the scene.

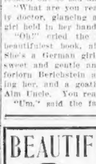

"Great Scott!" cried the friend, in tones of alarm. "What are you doing with four alarm-clocks and the gramaphone going?"

Cityman turned in his uneasy slumber. "I want to try and get a little sleep," he muttered in a slumbrous voice.

"But how do these things help?" asked the friend.

"The missus and the kids have gone for a walk," came the reply, "and everything in the house was so deadly quiet that I couldn't close my eyes."

An Apt Pupil

TALKING about his master's affairs was Tommy's besetting sin, and for it he had been dismissed.

As the lad was leaving, his master thought to give him some useful advice.

"Tommy," he said kindly, "in future you must never hear anything that is said in the office. Do what you are told to do, but turn a deaf ear to conversation which does not concern you."

While Tommy stood silent, pondering over this wisdom, a happy thought struck the good man. His typist was seated near. He would teach her the same lesson.

"Miss Brown," he remarked, "did you hear what I just said to Tommy?"

"Oh, no, sir!" replied Miss Brown.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

COPPER 15¼; SHARE PRICES CLIMB HIGHER

By W. H. ROSS

STATE STREET, March 23.—The strong tone of yesterday morning prevailed when stock markets opened today. Boston was firm at the start and Calumet & Arizona went to the highest figure it has attained in this movement. In heavy buying during the first twenty minutes it sold up 2½ to 70. North Butte rose ⅞ on large transactions. Franklin was among the few coppers which started weaker. At the end of the first hour Allouez, Centennial and Range were fractionally lower.

The Calumet and Arizona report is expected very soon, and it is understood it will be very satisfactory to stockholders.

The United Metals Selling Company has advanced the price of electrolytic copper to 15¼ cents.

London cables say the metal is £1 5s. higher there.

New High for American Can.

American Can preferred reached a new high record when the New York market opened, advancing 1⅝ to 102 in the first sales. This is the highest price for which it has sold since issued. The market started with a strong tone, and several stocks sold to new high levels for 1912. American Smelter went up 1⅝ to 84⅝, while Tennessee Copper gained a point. American Tobacco was very active and advanced 2. Fractional advances were scored in early trading by Union Pacific, which went up ⅝; Southern Pacific, up ¾; Erie common, up ⅝; B. & O., up ⅝; Lehigh Valley, up ⅜, and Canadian Pacific, up ½.

Curb prices were irregular.

The London market was quite firm at the close, with consols rising and home rails firmer. American railway shares were also firm. There was not much trading in Canadian Pacific. Coppers and mines showed more strength, as did also foreigners. At the close Rio Tintos were ⅜ higher at 73⅝.

Copper Metal Rises Further.

The price of electrolytic copper was advanced to 15¼ cents a pound in New York by the United Sellings Metal Company this morning, and the total rise within two days has been ¼. Private cablegrams from London say there is a keen demand there for copper today and that sales have been made at £68 flat, an advance of £1 5s.

Pool Manipulation in Copper.

In Wall Street yesterday, when copper shares held the centre of the speculative stage, bears began to talk of manipulation by pools. In the railway list evidence of something of the kind might be noticed, but with the price of metal where it is now and with the tendency to rise further so apparent, quotations of copper securities ought not require any more strenuous boosting than the ability of producing companies to pay higher dividends out of increased earnings. There is an undoubted scarcity of copper metal and the big buying movement in progress is not based upon statistical statements so much as on present production and surplus.

Consumers in this country who have gone into market for metal have not been getting any concessions to speak of. Business is improving and manufacturing concerns in the United States who have not stocked up with this material find themselves obliged to pay what is asked.

European manufacturers and business men in general are more apt to take advantage of a cheap market for supplies than their rivals in this country. That fact has been illustrated many times. More profit is expected here than there, methods of trading and manufacturing are more prodigal and there is vastly more optimism—which is not surprising of a land where it has not only been "easy come and easy go," but easy to get back into the running even after bankruptcy and receivership proceedings.

Copper metal has attained the 15 cents basis within a week. Now there is talk of 16 cents copper. The way orders poured into the metal market yesterday is sufficiently illuminative of the demand. As many of them came from abroad, where buyers are very extremely given to thorough investigation of market conditions, and are exceedingly cautious about wasting money, it is pretty safe to assume that copper statistics are pretty truthful and the world at present is facing a situation where there is a large demand for the metal and the supply is unusually limited. That the producers have been anxious to see the price hitched to an aeroplane has not been apparent.

Dutch Rival for Standard Oil.

Standard Oil has a rival in Holland which, the Amsterdam financial correspondent of the Boston AMERICAN says, now has the backing of the Rothchilds. The Royal Dutch Company, founded with a small capital twenty-two years ago, has been managed so well that after taking over the great Shell company through operating concerns it has now acquired from the Rothchilds of France 80 per cent of the stock of the two Russian petroleum companies controlled by the latter. The names of the latter are the Societe Caspienne and the Society de Mazut. The transaction involved the payment of about $14,000,000, but the Rothchilds have not asked for cash. In lieu of that they took the full payment in Royal Dutch and Shell stock at a high premium.

The Rothschilds are pledged not to sell the shares for two years and it is said—"This means a further direct association of the Rothschilds in the Royal Dutch-Shell Combine, so that the latter is now backed by practically unlimited financial resources." The Hollanders who are managing the rival of Standard Oil plan to get control of all Asiatic supplies which can be gathered in and to give the Rockefeller "octopus" all possible competition in the world's market.

Standard Oil Shares Thrown Out.

There will be no more quotation on the New York curb of the prices of a number of former Standard Oil and American Tobacco Company subsidiaries until the proscribed corporations comply with all the rules of the New York Curb Market Association, which wants reports of earnings made public to guide traders. The ban is put upon all Standard Oil subsidiaries except the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, Standard Oil of California, the Anglo-American Oil Company of London and the National Transit Company of Oil City, Pa. Other stocks barred from quotations are those of the Conley Foil Company, the Johnston Tin Foil Company, J. S. Young Company, McAndrews & Forbes Company and the Porto Rican-American Tobacco Company.

The British-American Tobacco Company is given until April 1 in which to do as is required. An exception was made of the Standard Oil Company of New York, which was as much of an offender as the others, because it was quoted on the curb before the Curb Association was formed. The Internal Revenue Department, with which corporation income reports must be filed under the law, has ruled that the only returns which shall be open to the public are those of the corporations whose stocks are sold on regularly registered exchanges or direct to the people. The Standard Oil and American Tobacco contention is that they do not offer their securities for sale, and that the curb isn't a duly registered stock exchange anyhow.

"Well, It's Just a Friendly Game"

"We All Quit About Even, Nobody Came Out Ahead"

(Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner.

They were coming down in the elevator together, not very early, not very late. They were packed in one corner. It was the hour when the crowd—ordinary, semi-failures—go home from their work.

These were typical, every-day human beings. Their coats were not very warm, not very new, yet fairly respectable.

Their faces were the ordinary kind, not much concentration—"no speculation," as Macbeth says of the ghost of Banquo's eyes in "Macbeth."

They belonged to the class that get along somehow, dodging halfway between poverty and prosperity, just managing to live, while others are going up and making themselves secure.

This was the conversation that the rest of the car overheard:

"Well, what kind of a game do you play?"

"Oh, just a little FRIENDLY game. We play ten-cent limit, a couple of hours every night. It's always the same crowd of us, a good jolly crowd, ALL FRIENDS. It's a little ten-cent game, until a little while before we break up, then we have a few twenty-five cent jackpots all around."

"How do you come out: who wins the dough?"

(We quote this conversation verbatim.)

"Oh, NOBODY WINS in the long run. One of the boys started in once to keep track of the game and see who came out ahead, but we found at the end of a few weeks it evened itself up, it was just a case of the boys letting each other hold their money for awhile, and then getting it back."

The man who runs the elevator said "Ground floor—all out."

The two men who spend two hours so charmingly each evening got out and went their way.

That conversation is so ordinary that it bores you. You have heard the same talk a thousand times.

What is the value of the two or three hours that are spent in the ordinary miscalled "friendly game"?

In the first place, there IS NO FRIENDLY GAMBLING. There is a hypocrisy which calls the gambling "friendly." But those who play know perfectly well that they play with a keen desire TO WIN.

The man in the "friendly game" spends two hours or more risking the money that his family needs. HE HAS BEEN WASTING HIS OWN TIME and his own chances.

We should like to ask the young men who waste their time on "friendly games" whether they have ever thought WHAT IT IS THAT MAKES SUCCESS.

The man who succeeds, to begin with, is he who puts HIS VITAL ENERGY INTO HIS WORK.

Each man has within himself only a certain LIMITED AMOUNT of energy. In that respect he is like a dynamo in a power house. If his energy is used up in one way, for instance in the aimless concentration of a poker game, IT CANNOT BE USED IN ANOTHER WAY THAT MIGHT BRING REAL SUCCESS.

The successful man's attention, vitality and INTEREST ARE CENTRED ON HIS IMPORTANT, HARD WORK.

The foolish man looking forward to his poker game in the evening, or looking forward to some other kind of useless dissipation, is simply looking forward to THE OPPORTUNITY OF LOSING AND WASTING HIS CHANCE.

If that young man in the elevator would go to his home, eat his dinner, talk for a short time with one or two friends—not trying to win their money like a drunken Indian on the plains—then read for a while some book of real value and go to bed, LOOKING FORWARD WITH INTEREST TO HIS WORK OF THE NEXT DAY, as he now looks forward to his poker game, he would be the coming man in his office.

If the recording angel could look down—or up, depending on the earth's position in its revolution—on all the "friendly" poker games in America, he would be able to make a very good and accurate list of the future failures of the United States.

A man who, after early youth, continued to waste his time with cards amounts to little ordinarily. But even the card players, the poor, silly geese of the friendly poker games, COULD SUCCEED.

If the men that play poker or gamble on the races, with waste of time in studying horses, could put into their WORK the real energy that they waste in gambling, THESE MEN WOULD BE SUCCESSFUL.

Outside of the lunatic asylums and the homes for idiots, almost every human being has the possibility of SOME success inside of him.

It is not stupendous genius that makes the ordinary successful man. The men of millions are not men with brains constructed in some unusual way. And the more worthy and decent successful men—those who work unselfishly for others with good results—are not really different from their fellow human beings.

Each of us contains in himself ENOUGH FORCE AND ENERGY TO MAKE HIM SUCCEED.

But the difficulty for each of us is to use his power in the right way.

There is enough energy wasted in poker to make a hundred thousand successful men every year.

The ingenuity foolish young men display in trying to get money to bet on races would make them really successful in starting a business of their own, IF THEY COULD USE THAT ENERGY IN THE RIGHT WAY.

There is plenty of energy, plenty of desire to succeed, in this world.

But there are too many men like those in the elevator whom we spoke of at the beginning of this article.

There are too many who put the crumbs of their real vitality into their work, and put the whole loaf into their dissipations.

They play cards, they make one day and lose the next. They spend in proportion to their exceptional winnings, which keeps them poor. They stint, and often lie and cheat and steal, in proportion to what they lose, which makes them worthless. And in the end the "friendly game" in which they think that they neither win nor lose means that they LOSE absolutely their chance in life, AND CAN'T POSSIBLY WIN ANYTHING.

Keep away from friendly games, and all gambling games. Don't try to get something without effort, or without giving something in return.

Remember that the force you throw away in dissipation will make you successful in real work if you will only compel yourself to be a worker. Genius itself—keep that always in mind—is "a capacity for taking infinite pains."

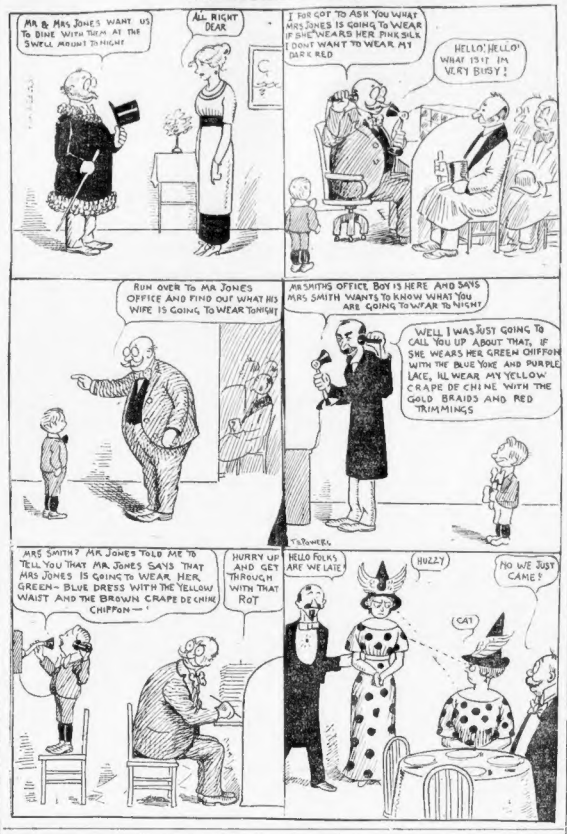

We can't all be geniuses, but we CAN all take infinite pains if we will. And by taking pains we can be fairly successful men, entitled to our own respect and to the respect of others, even though we may not turn out to be geniuses.

Make Your Home "Ideal" by Force of Character and Wealth Is Unnecessary

Be Agreeable and Amiable, in Face of Difficulties, to Those Around You, and Happiness Will Be Your Reward.

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal Examiner

SOME time ago an article appeared on this page from which the following extract is taken:

"MAKE HOME ANTE-ROOM TO HEAVEN. LET YOUR WORK THIS YEAR BE TO FIT YOURSELF FOR THE IDEAL HOME.

"Whatever you are doing, or wanting to do, in these early months of the new year, there are certain things which you CAN DO, no matter what your position may be.

"You can be agreeable and thoughtful and considerate in your treatment of the people with whom you are daily thrown.

"Let your great work this year be to prove that you can be agreeable in the midst of disagreeableness; amiable in the midst of the unamiable; thoughtful among the thoughtless, and considerate among the inconsiderate.

"And after a time, if you continue in this effort, you will find either those with whom you live changing, or else your environment will change, and your life will be led into pleasant paths.

"Just so soon as you are ready for a home where love, good will, thoughtfulness and good manners are the ruling laws of the domain, such a home will be prepared for you.

"Let your work this year be to fit yourself for the ideal home."

Now comes a letter to the writer of the article, which is quoted below. There was no signature, but the penmanship indicated a woman as the author of the letter of inquiry. The letter enclosed a clipping of the article on "Home."

"Do you ever get down to earth? Did you ever get next to a washtub? Have you ever taken care of a sick baby? Have you raised a family and done the work for them with your own hands? Are you really human, or are you an angel?"

Quite human, but working toward angelship. No visible results yet, but the ideal always held in mind.

Personal experiences would be of less value to relate than observations of others.

A slender little woman was the mother of seven children. Her husband when himself was a decent sort of man, but he had not developed his will power sufficiently to keep away from the demon of drink who obsessed him periodically. There was a bedridden old mother, ill and with failing mind. Now, this little laundress, while human enough to do her work excellently and to keep her children clean and well clothed, and her rent paid, WAS ANGEL enough to make her home a little heaven of peace and cheerfulness and comfort for her little ones and for the old mother and for the weak husband, who died blessing the good wife, whose existence he had marred by his unfortunate habits.

Another woman who was afflicted with lack of means, a large family and a "self-denying husband, yet made an IDEAL HOME for all of them and for the ever-increasing circle of loving friends who were attracted to her, and who brought pleasure and distraction to her by their association.

So it is not necessary to possess money, social position or worldly prominence in order to make an IDEAL HOME.

It is wholly and entirely a matter OF CHARACTER AND WILL POWER and an understanding of the importance of the home. There are scores of people possessed of every earthly blessing, millions of money and position and influence who yet make HELLS OF THEIR HOMES.

The mother who has a little family and who is doing the work for them with her own hands wants to stop and ask herself, "Would I be happier if I had no children? And, since I have them, WHAT AM I GIVING THEM BESIDES FOOD AND CARE? Am I giving them memories of myself which will be an example and a happy recollection in time to come? Will they recall their mother's voice and their mother's face as sweet memories in after years? Or will they think of me as a scolding virago and of their home as a place they dreaded to enter?

"Do they love me, or fear me? What does Home mean to them? Are they learning the priceless lessons of order and cleanliness and patience and cheerfulness and mirth?"

Very few people think of mirthfulness as a virtue. Yet it is one of the greatest of the lesser virtues. Teach a child Faith, Truthfulness, Honor, Self-Control, Order, Cleanliness, Industry, Patience, Unselfishness, Kindness of Word and Deed and A MIRTHFUL VIEW OF SEEMING MISFORTUNES.

Teach him to laugh over his own mishaps; and to find the amusing side of every accident which befalls him.

Help him to get all the fun out of life possible.

But be sure you teach him to laugh WITH PEOPLE, not AT THEM.

He must laugh at himself, however, whenever he feels an impulse to be sorry for himself.

The poorest mother in the world can do this for her children.

The poorest mother on earth can lay a few mental bricks in the foundation of an IDEAL HOME.

It has been done by more poor mothers than rich mothers. And what woman has done, woman can do.

Secrets of Richeson's Cell

The SUNDAY AMERICAN Tomorrow Will Print the Most Absorbing Story That Has Yet Been Told About This Remarkable Young Man—And This Is Only One of the Many Great Features in Store for SUNDAY AMERICAN Readers Tomorrow.

The most interesting prisoner in the United States today, without a doubt, is Clarence Virgil Thompson Richeson. He is in the Charles street jail. He faces electrocution on May 19.

The fascinating young man won the heart of Avis Linnell. She was young and very pretty. She sang in his choir at Hyannis. They were to be married.

Then he met Miss Violet Edmands. She is wealthy and has social prestige. Engaged to Avis Linnell, and bound to her by even a higher bond of honor, Richeson planned to marry the richer girl. The invitations for the wedding were out.

Avis Linnell was poisoned. Richeson was arrested for the crime. He maimed himself in his cell—one of the strangest phases that ever developed in a great tragedy.

Richeson confessed. It was an amazing confession. He gave Avis Linnell, the little choir singer who trusted him, the deadliest poison known to chemists—cyanide of potassium.

And he gave it to her, making her believe it was a medicine.

These facts are recapitulated for the purpose of announcing that in tomorrow's SUNDAY AMERICAN the secrets of Richeson's cell will be told.

It is the most absorbing story that has ever been told about this remarkable young man. No other newspaper will have it. The facts came straight from the jail cell—they will be presented graphically to the reader.

There will be a story, illustrated with striking photographs, which will interest every HARVARD MAN. This article is full of fun and pleasantries and concerns people and institutions well known to every Harvard graduate and undergraduate. The SUNDAY AMERICAN will certainly have a large circulation about Harvard Square, and in every locality where Harvard men reside.

THE IMAGINATION IS MAN'S GREATEST FACULTY. "Imagination rules the world," declared Napoleon, and then, putting his axiom into practice by playing upon the imagination of men, he became near rendering himself the world's master.

Imagination rules because it underlies every human aspiration. It pictures the glories of the past and awakes the pride of race; it pictures the wonders of the future, and the whole world begins to climb and reach after them; it opens vistas of mystery, and man, peering into them, feels how completely he is subject to powers and forces beyond his comprehension AND HOW DELIGHTFUL IT IS TO A CHILD PLAYING IN THE GARDEN OF MARVELS THAT WE CALL THE UNIVERSE. For, after all, nature is indulgent to our ignorance, and she pats us on the back, approvingly, every time we discover one of her secrets.

Reflections like this must come to anyone who looks upon the panorama of life exhibited in the Sunday Magazine of tomorrow's AMERICAN. The power of the imagination in molding the character of a nation by representing the glories of its history is shown in the great picture of the monument to the Maine that is soon to stand at the Columbus Circle entrance to Central Park. The recent sea funeral of the Maine was one of the most magnificent expressions of a great nation's pride in its heroes that the imagination of man has ever conceived, more impressive than anything that Rome or Venice ever did. And the great symbolic monument, with all its splendor of towering marble and bronze, with its colossal figure of "Columbia Triumphant," will stir the American heart for centuries to come.

The power of the imagination when it deals with yet unsolved mysteries is exhibited on another page, where the strange story is told of the beautiful "Pearl Mother," the young and lovely Spanish actress, Tortola Valencia, invited to St. Petersburg by the Czar to wear the faded necklace that tradition says lost its beauty and "sickened" because it was so long worn by the dissolute Empress Catharine, but whose ailing pearls may, it is believed, be restored to all their pristine life and beauty at the magic touch of this blooming Spanish girl, who has won a great reputation in Paris by her alleged power to revive faded pearls by wearing them on her bosom. The Dark Ages presented nothing stranger than that, but while we smile, scientifically, at the superstition, we cannot shut our eyes to the fact that the ruler of the widest compact empire in the modern world evidently believes in it, and acts upon it. Remarkable, indeed, have been the adventures of Tortola Valencia in Russia.

Then turn to the exhibition which Feary's companion, Borup, gives of the influence of the imagination in strengthening the hearts of men, as shown by the curious Winter entertainments by which the horrors of the long Arctic night were banished. Esquimaux maidens, clad in their long, warm trousers of fur, trained as a sextette of dancers, laughing with girlish delight at the strange experience and filling the minds of the on-lookers with thoughts of the pleasures of home, while they waited in the Far North for the return of the sun and the moment when a dash could be made for the Pole. It was all conceived in the Napoleonic spirit; it was thus that he utilized the wonders of the lands that his legions traversed to stir the imagination and keep up the spirits of his soldiers far from home.

The inexplicable disappearance of the priceless picture or Mona Lisa from the Louvre in Paris affords another example of the power of the imagination. The French alienists of the Salpetriere and the Bicetre, as you will read, have, with the aid of the manometer, an instrument which measures the emotions of men and women by recording changes in the blood pressure, found reason to believe that it must have been a man and not a woman who stole the picture, and THAT THE THIEF WAS INSANE.

These experiments have shown another strange fact—that certain pictures may be used to CALM, if not to CURE insanity. A quiet picture, with delicately harmonized colors, appears to excite some insane persons to frenzy, while a "crazy" picture, full of bizarre colors and extravagant fancy, acts in exactly the opposite manner, and swings their minds toward sanity.

A very curious instance of the power of imagination is given in Lady Duff-Gordon's new creations in women's dress. A hat that is as near to a poem as the art of millinery can go, and a robe that idealizes the form of its wearer—what better evidence could there be that clothes are but an expression of the all-ruling fantasies of the mind?

In passing, it might be well to call attention to a GREAT ANNOUNCEMENT which is going to be made in SUNDAY'S AMERICAN. The AMERICAN has arranged to offer its readers reproductions of the FAMOUS $150,000 BRADY WAR PICTURES, together with colored plates of sixteen famous war scenes. The particulars of this great offer cannot be detailed in this space, but will be given in full in a double-page announcement in tomorrow's SUNDAY AMERICAN.
